safety director for the group; Irene Speece who is silk-screening a target board, and Jeff Blasingame, vice-president of manufacturing. The JA company hopes to sell 1,000 of the new games at $2.50 each. The photo was taken Monday evening.

Appeal blocks sewers

A notice of appeal, seeking a review by the Illinois Supreme Court of the proposal by the Madison County Special Sewer Committee to finance the local share of constructing new sanitary sewers in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships, has been filed in Madison County Circuit Court by Joseph Hill.

He is attorney for persons attempting to block the local financing.

Hill's notice of appeal was filed prior to the deadline of 5 p.m. Monday, the last day to notify the court of an appeal. The actual appeal will not be filed with the court until transcripts of hearings on the issue can be prepared by the Madison County circuit clerk, it was related.

The circuit clerk has up to 60 days to prepare the transcripts of the hearings on the issue and to submit them to the Supreme Court. Hill has 35 days thereafter to file his brief on the appeal, officials said.

Harry E. Hartman, attorney for the sewer committee, then has 35 days after Hill's brief is submitted in which to file his answers to the brief.

After Hartman files, Hill has 14 days to file a response to Hartman's answers.

After all of this is on file, the Supreme Court would hear the case and approve or reject the appeal, or place it in the

On and off the record City seeking—what else?—snow plows

Spurred by heavy snows during recent weeks, Granite City council members agreed Tuesday night to call bids for two snow plow attachments for heavy-duty street department trucks, and to establish a "snow route" including the city's major thoroughfares.

On a suggestion by Alderman

Clyde Boyd, chairman of the street and alley committee, council members decided to finance the purchase of two snow plow attachments out of federal revenue sharing funds.

Alderman Curtis Blevins, a member of the street and alley committee, told the council that

4 ambulances sought

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

A $56,000 application which would allow Granite City to purchase four ambulances was prepared and submitted to the Illinois Department of Public Health yesterday afternoon by Mayor Paul Schuler and Fire Chief Don Parente.

The application is in response to a request by Bob Thomas, operator of Thomas Ambulance Service, that the city explore alternatives to present ambulance services, since a private service is now losing money.

During Tuesday night's Granite City Council meeting, George Filcoff, city attorney, advised the aldermen there is no legal way the city could subsidize a private ambulance service.

The city taking over to provide public ambulances would be the only alternative to private firms, he said.

"By coincidence," Mayor

Schuler told the Press-Record, "the city already had begun investigating the possibility of taking over ambulance service about a month earlier, and we were about ready to file an application for 70 per cent of the cost of purchasing four ambulances."

Two weeks ago, Thomas requested a meeting with city officials on the ambulance problem. At that meeting, he said he did not feel the number of emergency ambulances he has made available are sufficient for the population being served.

He said he does not feel he can hire more attendants and drivers at this time, since he believes only about 40 per cent of the bills for ambulance runs are collectible and the ambulance service is losing money.

Insurance also could present a problem, David Parney, a partner in Thomas Ambulance, said, noting that the company carrying the ambulance insurance could cancel it at any time, if Thomas is given 30 days' notice by the insurance firm.

After the meeting with Thomas, Mayor Schuler asked Fire Chief Parente to proceed with a grant application for four ambulances.

The officials met at 1 p.m. yesterday with John Santoro, regional emergency medical services coordinator for the Division of Emergency Medical Services and Highway Safety,

2 die on viaduct

Two Venice men were killed and five other persons were injured in a two-car accident on the McCambridge Avenue viaduct on Route 208 south of Second Street, Madison, at 12:50 a.m. Tuesday.

Dead are T. B. Young, 24, of 1017 Calhoun St., and Henry Hyster, 19, of 1215 Calhoun St., both pronounced dead upon arriving by ambulance at the St. Elizabeth Hospital emergency room.

Both were found without signs of life in their auto. Another passenger in the car, Mr.

Young's brother, Henry Young, 20, also of 1017 Calhoun St., was pinned in the wreckage and had to be removed by Madison volunteer firemen who pried and cut sections of the car apart to remove him from the right front seat.

Henry Young was admitted to the hospital in serious condition with possible internal injuries as well as injuries to his right arm and right thigh. He said he was asleep when the accident occurred.

Andy Lawary, 30, East St. Louis, the driver of the other car, was admitted to the hospital in good condition with a bruise to his lower right leg and injuries to his chest, which struck the steering wheel.

Charles Berkley, 24, East St. Louis, a passenger in Lawary's auto, was examined at the hospital here and was transferred to Firmin DeSoto Hospital, St. Louis, with injuries to his head and neck.

Marlon Vickers Jr., 21, East St. Louis, another passenger, suffered cuts to his face, eyebrow, eyelid, cheek and lips.

Queen Melanie a state finalist

By KEN THOMPSON
Press-Record Staff Writer

The 67th annual convention of the Illinois Association of Agricultural Fairs concluded Monday evening at Springfield with selection of Mercedes Inslerde of Tuscola as the 1977 Miss Illinois County Fair queen.

Miss Inslerde, 18, a student at Northwestern University, was among 10 finalists, including Melanie Asadorian of Granite City, who competed in the final segment of a three-day pageant.

Fifty-three county fair queens vied for the state crown in the capital city's Forum 30 ballroom.

Counties from nearly all corners of the state were represented in Saturday's rehearsals and interviews with a panel of judges, and again on Sunday during preliminary competition.

More than 1,000 persons viewed a procession of the young ladies into the ballroom Monday evening prior to announcement by Bill Miller, master-of-ceremonies and a professor at Sangamon State University, of the finalists who would compete in the final judging.

Check warranty facts

By VIRGINIA KNAUER
Director

U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs

Is this product "guaranteed"?

If it doesn't work, will the company repair it?

How long is the product under warranty?

These are the kinds of questions you have probably asked yourself—and a salesman—every time you have shopped for a consumer product.

But like most consumers, you probably didn't get the answers to these questions until after you bought the product and actually read the warranty (if you could understand it).

As a result of new regulations issued by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), this situation will be changing.

Within two years' time stores will have to make available to all shoppers copies of the warranties of products it sells—so you and other consumers can read and compare warranties before you buy.

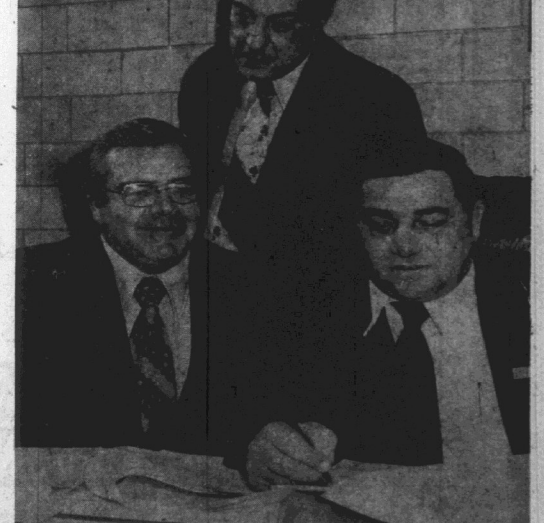

To insure that consumers know the terms of the warranty before they buy the product—and not after they get it home—FTC will require stores to give consumers the opportunity to read and compare warranties in the store.

Effective Jan. 1, 1977, FTC's

"Hexology," the history and meaning of "hex" symbols, was the subject of a program presented Monday evening for members of Xi Epsilon Chi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Barbara Hente, 3708 Joyce Ave.

Mrs. Linda Koenig discussed a book written by Jacob and Jane Zook, concerning hexology and specifically the symbols believed by the Pennsylvania Dutch people to bring good luck or bad.

Mrs. Carol Cathey, chapter president, conducted the business session and plans were made to hold a special committee meeting in the area divisions on Jan. 24 at the home of Mrs. Phyllis Kubele.

The sorority's annual Valentine's dance is set for Feb. 26 at the Croatian Home in Madison, Mrs. Koenig reported. A social event to entertain husbands and friends was scheduled for Feb. 7 at the home of Mrs. Candy Thompson.

Attending the meeting were Carolyn Cernkovich, Jan Monaghan, Marilyn Lumpkins, Helen Hall, Barbara Jones and three named.

Movie for youth at Tabernacle

"Love is Beautiful," one of three new full-color motion picture releases by Outreach Films in Burbank, Calif., will be shown at Tri-City Park Tabernacle, 2501 Clark Ave., at 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Rev. Dennis Woodruff, associate pastor of the church, said he feels confident the film will challenge young people to "do something serious thinking about their dating lives."

He said the film deals with the delicate problems of love and sex in a way which appeals to young audiences. A positive and clear biblical view is set forth to guide young people in reevaluating their dating behavior.

Producer of the film was Mal Couch and the writer was Dr. Gene Getz of the Dallas Theological Seminary.

Rev. Woodruff said the month of January has been devoted to services in love, dating, marriage and talking with teenagers about what the Bible says on these subjects. The Jan. 30 discussion at 5:30 p.m. will be on the subject of marriage, he said.

National PTA program seeks solutions to nine problems

The National Parents and Teachers Association has launched a concentrated program, supported by all statewide PTA organizations, involving nine specific problems of importance to all communities regarding the children of pre-school, elementary, junior high school and high school age.

The program is directed by the national PTA president, Carol Kimmel of Rock Island, Ill.

"The Today PTA—Volunteers Putting Muscle Behind Major Problems" was the theme of the initial series of articles submitted to radio and television to alert the public of the campaign by PTA units throughout the country.

On Sept. 27, the National PTA opened its television violence project in Chicago with a week-long seminar of the TV Study Commission of to PTA people meeting with experts from the television industry as the first step in an effort to reduce the amount of violence shown on television.

Other hearings were set up by the national PTA in several states for residents to voice their concern relating to violence on television, and to plan ways to continue the anti-violence project.

Other subjects of interest to all parents and PTA members, which the national organization is continuing to publicize to provide a long range program to resolve the problems, or form a unified project to correct services to children, are as follows:

Mrs. Kimmel reported the remaining areas which are of top importance in the year-long campaign include child abuse, safety for students traveling to and from school; advanced reading assistance for pupils who have a reading problem; juvenile delinquency; food programs for youngsters whose parents are in the low income bracket; drug abuse programs; teenage alcohol abuse studies; to stop closing of needed schools.

The overall plan is to get every parent interested in a PTA unit and its programs, then to advance to the county, state and national level for assistance regarding legislation and funds to continue several of the rehabilitation projects, Mrs. Kimmel added.

Information in conjunction with any of the topics is available from Mrs. Dorothy Baker, president of the Granite City Area PTA Council, or through a president of an individual PTA unit, it was noted.

Reckless homicide verdict at inquest on Dec. 22 deaths

A coroner's jury in Granite City this week returned a verdict of reckless homicide as the cause of death of Mrs. Kathleen Fields, 29, and her son, John C. Fields, 3, both of Glen Carbon.

The two died and Mrs. Fields' husband, John J. "Jack" Fields, and their daughter, Colleen, 7, were injured when their auto was in an accident on Route 162, six-tenths of a mile west of Lake Drive Dec. 22. The family members are former local residents.

Michael D. Krauskopf, 22, of 2230 Dale Ave., who allegedly was driving an auto which struck the Fields' car, pleaded the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution at the inquest.

declining to testify on grounds the testimony might incriminate him. The refusal was on the advice of his attorney, William Brandt, who also was at the inquest.

The coroner's jury recommended that Krauskopf be bound over to a grand jury for investigation, in light of the verdict reached at the inquest. A grand jury investigation will not be necessary, since Krauskopf already has been named in an informational document from the Madison County state's attorney's office, alleging two counts of reckless homicide and one count of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The information in effect bypasses the grand jury and leads to a court hearing on trial. Krauskopf was the first witness called to the stand by Madison County Coroner David Partney, who conducted the inquest.

Brandt said he had instructed Krauskopf not to answer any questions except one asking his name. Partney asked him his name and he responded. When the deputy coroner asked him his address, he began to answer and then stopped abruptly.

Preliminary ambulance reports noted John C. Fields was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 5:12 p.m. Dec. 22 and was pronounced dead at 6:06 p.m. Mrs. Fields was dead upon arrival at 5:12 p.m.

Coroner's reports showed Mrs. Fields suffered multiple injuries, including broken bones in the right thigh, both arms, left leg and skull. She also had abdominal injuries.

The child suffered a break to the right arm, head injuries and possible internal injuries. Illinois State Police Trooper Charles Koske, the second witness, read the coroner's jury the accident report he had prepared at the scene.

In his description, Trooper Koske alleged a westbound auto struck the rear of the westbound Fields auto, causing the Fields' car to leave the roadway, flip on its side and strike a tree. Krauskopf's auto then turned sideways and went broadside into the eastbound oncoming auto of John Thompson, 48, Hamel, Ill. It was related.

Koske told of finding John J. Fields and his wife and son pinned in their Volkswagen, wrapped around the tree, and the daughter lying nearby where she had been thrown out of the car. Krauskopf was lying behind his car, the jury was told.

Trooper Koske said he called for the Long Lake Fire Department rescue unit and for ambulances, aided the injured and then took photographs and measurements after the injured had been taken to the hospital. He said he then went to Krauskopf in the examining room while Krauskopf signed himself out of the hospital and attempted to put on his boots.

The trooper testified they then walked to the state police car.

He advised Krauskopf he was under arrest and asked him if he would consent to take a breath test to determine if alcohol was present.

Koske said he read a prepared statement which must be read before a consent statement is signed and Krauskopf said he understood the statement and signed the form for the test.

He then was taken to the Edwardsville police station, where the test was administered twice by another trooper.

The results showed a reading of 15 each, exceeding the minimum alcohol level the state defines as intoxication, the trooper testified.

The officer said Krauskopf also was given five performance tests. He allegedly swayed on the balance test, but was steady and sure on walking and turning tests the jury was told. The test of touching a finger to the nose was steady and sure for the right hand, but he failed the left hand test, according to the testimony.

Trooper Koske also alleged Krauskopf fumbled on a test involving picking up several coins.

He said he next took Krauskopf to the Madison County Jail.

He also read a statement given him in the hospital by John J. Fields, in which Fields recalled the accident.

In the statement, Fields said he slowed for cars ahead of him to turn left and then began to speed up when the road cleared and he noticed a car approaching in a rear-view mirror.

Fields estimated he was going 40 to 50 miles per hour, and alleged the headlights were approaching at a high rate of speed.

He recalled swerving to the right to get out of the way of the car approaching from the rear, but Fields' auto was struck from behind and went up in the air and turned over. Fields said in the statement he did not recall anything beyond that moment.

He suffered breaks and severe injuries to both his legs. Koske read a statement from Thompson in which Thompson recalled seeing the headlights of Fields' Volkswagen approaching and saw the left headlight of a second car behind Fields' auto.

Thompson said it appeared the second car had struck the Volkswagen, which then swerved off the road. "In an extremely short amount of time," the second car struck Thompson's auto, according to the statement.

The statement said Thompson recalled the rear of the second car swinging toward the center line and then into the oncoming lane. He said he swerved to the left and tried to miss the auto, but was unable to do so and they collided in the eastbound lane.

Trooper Koske also read a statement from Kenneth Allsberry, a security guard at St. Elizabeth Hospital on the night of the accident, who alleged there was a disturbance in the x-ray room and he entered and told Krauskopf to lie down.

Allsberry's statement said Krauskopf told Allsberry he felt "pretty good" and stated, "I shouldn't have gone to that party."

The statement further alleged Krauskopf told Allsberry, "Oh, man, I went to a party where I worked."

Later, Krauskopf told Allsberry, "Do you know what happened? I fell asleep,"

School spirit at MHS good Spirit at the Madison High School is greatly improving, according to Richard Corbin, school principal, who spoke at the Wednesday noon meeting of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club.

Corbin stressed the importance of parent and community involvement with the schools and encouraged parents to visit the school.

He also stressed the need for parents to show an interest in the students' studies as well as encourage the students to participate in school activities.

Rotarian Ray Edwards announced that the club will hold a ladies' night at the Plantation Dinner Theater on Wednesday, Feb. 16. The cost will be $8.50 per person and Rotarians are being asked to make their reservation at next Wednesday's meeting.

Corbin said he had been at a party and guessed he had too much to drink, Burns testified.

Burns also alleged Krauskopf told him he thought he might have fallen asleep and struck another car.

After Burns' testimony, the coroner's jury was instructed by Partney on the various verdicts it could return.

The jury returned five minutes later and returned a verdict that the deaths were caused by multiple traumatic injuries to the heads, bodies and legs of the victims and recommending that Krauskopf be bound over to a grand jury for further investigation.

"Our verdict is reckless homicide," the foreman concluded.

Allesbury alleged in his statement to Trooper Koske, Lieutenant Gary Burns of the Madison County Sheriff's Department, the next witness, said he talked to Krauskopf in a hospital treatment room.

Burns recalled Krauskopf was having difficulty lacing his boots and finally decided to leave them unlaced. Burns alleged there was a strong odor of alcohol.

Tax Reform Act alters ways in which federal income tax returns are figured Individual taxpayers filing federal tax returns for 1976 will notice several changes in the law resulting from recent passage of the Tax Reform Act of 1976, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Before preparing their return, the IRS cautions, taxpayers should carefully read the instructions they received with their tax packages in order to be aware of changes in the law.

Those having preparers fill out their returns should also make sure the preparers provide an Employee Identification or Social Security number on the return.

The IRS stresses that some new provisions in the law which became effective on Jan. 1, 1977, or later have no bearing on the filing of 1976 returns.

One provision in the legislation affecting virtually everyone filing a 1976 return is the general tax credit. This provides a tax credit of $26 for the taxpayer as well as for each person listed as a dependent, or two percent of the first $8,000 of taxable income, whichever is larger.

For a family of four claiming the credit and earning in excess of $9,000 in taxable income, the two percent alternative, or $180, would exceed $140 (four times $35).

The family's general tax credit, therefore, would total $180.

Larger families with six or more dependents should use the 35 percent dependent computation, according to the IRS.

Another result of the new legislation for 1976 returns, the IRS said, is that more individuals will be able to claim the earned income credit. This credit is designed to benefit low-income working families.

To qualify for the credit of up to $409 a year, a worker's total income for 1976, including earned income, must be less than $8,000.

In addition, individuals must have paid more than half the cost of keeping up either an owned or rented home for themselves and for their child who was under 19 years of age or who was a full-time student, or for their disabled child who is a dependent.

Married taxpayers must file a joint return to claim the credit. Here's how the earned income credit works:

An eligible working family is allowed to subtract from taxes owed 10 percent of the first $4,000 of income earned.

The credit is reduced proportionately by the amount of adjusted gross income over $4,000 before disappearing when the family's income hits $8,000. A taxpayer whose earned income credit exceeds the amount of taxes owed receives a check from the government, the IRS says.

Another change for 1976 returns, expected to benefit millions of taxpayers, is the liberalization of child care benefits.

Generally, taxpayers who incur expenses for the care of children or disabled dependents in order to work for a living, can take a tax credit equal to 20 percent of their costs, up to a maximum credit of $400 for one dependent and $800 for two or more.

Taxpayers no longer have to itemize to get a tax break. The credit has been extended to divorced or separated parents who have custody of a child, to deserted spouses who supported a child for more than six months of 1976, and to individuals working part-time.

Taxpayers will find the minimum standard deduction increased to $1,700 for single persons and $2,100 for couples filing jointly.

The standard deduction is 16 percent of adjusted gross income with a ceiling of $2,400 for single persons and $2,800 for couples who file joint returns. For married persons filing separately, the new maximum is $1,400, up from $1,300 in 1975, the IRS says.

The retirement income credit has been liberalized in several ways and the same changed to the Tax Credit for the Elderly.

First, the credit has been extended to include earned income and is therefore available to individuals age 65 or over regardless of whether they have retirement or earned income.

The reduction in the credit for one-half of earnings between $1,200 and $1,700 and for all earnings over $1,700 has been eliminated, as has the requirement that the person must have annual earnings of $600 for 10 years prior to claiming the credit.

The maximum credit has been increased to 15 percent of $2,000 for single taxpayers age 65 or over and $2,750 for couples filing jointly if both are 65 or over.

There are special rules for couples in which one spouse is 65 or over and the other under 65.

The maximum credit base is reduced by one-half of adjusted gross income over $7,500 for single persons and $10,000 for married filing jointly.

Also, there are special rules for persons receiving public retirement income even though they are under 65.

Beginning with the 1976 returns, most employees will no longer be able to exclude from income money received when absent from work because of injury or illness (i.e., a sick pay exclusion).

Only retirees under age 65 who are permanently and totally disabled will be able to exclude up to $5,000 per year. However, the exclusion is reduced dollar for dollar of adjusted gross income, including disability income, over $5,000.

The new law also places restrictions on taking deductions for the business use of home, or on expenses incurred to rent out a vacation home.

The tax tables have been replaced by one tax table which must be used by those taxpayers with taxable income not over $25,000.

The IRS cautions taxpayers to read the tax return instructions carefully because of the new legislation.

It suggests that taxpayers take advantage of the order blank in the back of the tax packages to obtain revised IRS publications on a variety of tax subjects, available at no cost.

Bi-State Agency acquisition regarded as sound structure

Although only a generation old itself, the Missouri-Illinois Bi-State Development Agency, has chosen a historic setting, the Laclede's Landing area, as the site of its headquarters building.

A tenant until now, Bi-State has decided to move its executive and administrative offices into a renovated turn-of-the-century structure.

The building features 14-foot ceilings, solid oak and pine columns and beams, and floor-to-ceiling windows.

It has a spectacular view of the Mississippi River, the Illinois shoreline, the Eads and Martin Luther King bridges, the Gateway Arch and the downtown St. Louis skyline.

"This is a structurally sound building, constructed on solid rock with no apparent cracks, even after 75 years," Robert J. Baer says. "It is readily adaptable to rehabilitation, and can function as a totally modern office facility while retaining its original, charming, 19th Century characteristics."

Baer, Bi-State executive director, has announced that the agency's Board of Commissioners has approved the plan to purchase the six-story building at First and Lucas Streets, St. Louis. It was built for the Christian-Pepper Tobacco Co. and is known as the Old Tobacco Factory.

The price of the 125,000-square-foot facility is $400,000. Design and rehabilitation are expected to cost about $2 million.

Baer said the old St. Louis Public Service Company building at 29th and Park Avenue, which currently houses the transit system's administrative offices, will be razed to make way for an expanded garage and repair facility.

"I am elated that our many months of discussion, research and planning have finally resulted in this decision," Baer said. "I believe our plan to locate in the Laclede's Landing area demonstrates our firm commitment to the renewal efforts currently under way in downtown St. Louis."

Baer said Bi-State's move represents the first and largest major office use by a single tenant in the historic area.

William E. Maritz, president of the Laclede's Landing Redevelopment Corporation, in response to Bi-State's announcement, said, "We are pleased and enthusiastic that the Bi-State Development Agency has made the decision to consolidate its executive and administrative offices in the Landing."

"They have chosen one of the most historic and architecturally significant buildings in the entire area. With its location on the river immediately adjacent to the Jefferson National Exposition Memorial and access to the state of Illinois, we feel that the Agency has made an excellent choice, and we heartily welcome them into our midst."

"I salute Bi-State officials for their commitment to the economic viability and redevelopment of our community. It has been a pleasure to work with the Bi-State Board of Commissioners and its staff in this matter."

Maritz added that new streetlights, designed to complement the "nostalgic 19th Century nature of the area, will be in place by mid-March."

Baer estimated that the building could be ready for occupancy in mid-1978.

He cited proximity to bus lines as well as Bi-State's other operations—the Gateway Arch transporter system, Bi-State Park Airport and the Port of Metropolitan St. Louis—as factors in the decision to locate in Laclede's Landing.

"I see our move into this area as an opportunity to gain additional recognition of Bi-State as a dynamic organization highly interested in making the St. Louis region an exciting and meaningful place in which to work and live," Baer concluded.

Frank A. Clouse, 75, dies

He retired as a signal maintenance man at the Terminal Railroad Association where he worked in the East St. Louis yards more than 40 years.

He was a member of the Holy Rosary Catholic Church of Fairmont City. Knights of

He is survived by his wife, Mildred (Yager) Clouse; one daughter, Sister Frances Ann, OSF, of Hazelwood, Mo.; two sisters, Mrs. Julia Allen and Mrs. Frances Knaut of Fairmont City.

Funeral arrangements are given in today's obituary column.

The 39th annual Crippled Children's Ball, sponsored by the Venice Crippled Children's Organization (VCCO), will take place this year on Saturday, Jan. 29.

Plans for the event were finalized at a meeting last week. Venice Mayor William "Mike" Ebersold serves as president of the civic-charitable group.

The affair will be held at Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307, at 740 Broadway, Venice. Dancing will begin at 9 p.m. and continue until 1 a.m.

Music will be provided by the Noblemen of Ainald Shrine Temple.

Theme of the 1977 ball will be "Wizard of Oz" and appropriate decorations are being prepared by Jerry Schodrak, Marcia Byrnes, Betty Mulnik, Tom Gordon and members of Boy Scout Troop 1.

Tickets are now available, costing $2 each, from Jack Tolliver, ticket chairman, George Mangiaracino, co-chairman, or other VCCO members. They also may be purchased at the door the night of the dance.

Proceeds from the annual ball are donated to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children and the Shriner's Burns Center. A portion also is used by the organization throughout the year.

Refreshments will be available the night of the dance.

Plans also were completed for a road block at Broadway and Klein Street, Venice, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Jan. 29. Members of the Venice Volunteer Fire Company 1 and Venice-Madison Legion Post 307 will "man" the roadblock, soliciting donations from passing motorists.

Other Venice residents in charge of arrangements for the affair are:

Evelyn Tolliver, cakes; Tom Maher, games and prizes; Sybil Robb, contests; Valeta Bauder, publicity; Bill Meehan and Steve Wilcox, road block; Darlene Hoffman, ad book.

Harold Koelker Jr. and Pete Wilkinson, Question Mark canisters; Margaret Lee, boosters; Clifford Canner and John Mangiaracino, cloakroom; Thomas Fields and Jack Lee, refreshments; and Leo Davinroy, floor.

Current officers of the organization also include: Milton Morris, vice-president; Donald Phillips, treasurer; and Darlene Hoffman, secretary.

SEEK STOLEN CAR

Police are searching for a white 1973 Corvette two-door coupe which was stolen from the used car lot of Mathews Chevrolet, Madison and Niedringhaus avenues, between Dec. 30 and Monday. The car is owned by Jay Greer, 1546 Sixth St., Madison, and was being sold on consignment by Mathews. The owner said he received a notification the car had received a parking ticket recently in St. Louis County while still bearing his license plates.

GRANITE CITY SERGEANT Michael D. Ellsworth, 3025 Iowa St., takes off on a cross-country skiing course during winter training with the Illinois Army National Guard at Camp Ripley in Minnesota. Sgt. Ellsworth is one of 440 Illinois Army National Guardsmen participating in two weeks of winter training at Camp Ripley, 120 miles northwest of Minneapolis. The Guardsmen arrived Jan. 9 to train in temperatures which have ranged to 41 degrees below zero. Training emphasis is on winter combat operations and cross-country skiing and includes a three-night bivouac in sub-zero weather. A veteran of four years of service with the Guard, Ellsworth is a squad leader in the Scout Platoon of the East St. Louis-based Support Company, 3rd Battalion, 130th Infantry.

Teenagers urged not to ignore drinking problem

Teenage alcoholism: the two words may not seem to belong together. Unfortunately, for a group of teens the words are used to describe their dilemma. "From a study involving a group of teenagers, 13 to 16," Dr. John Steffek, assistant professor of psychiatry, College of Medicine, University of Illinois at the Medical Center, Chicago, and child psychiatrist at the Institute for Juvenile Research, reports, "six per cent are using alcohol several times a week. Bearing in mind the age of this group, six per cent is an impressive figure."

"Alcoholism is a complex problem. Parents have to be aware that the problem of teenage alcoholism is one that cannot effectively be dealt with inside the family structure. "Parents and friends commonly try to protect the teen who may have a drinking problem. Often, the drinking is ignored until the teen is in deep trouble."

"If somebody protects a teen alcoholic, for whatever reason, he or she is protecting that person to death. Professional assistance is essential. The problem is just too big to be handled inside the home."

He adds that parents of a teen with an alcoholic problem often have feelings of guilt, asking themselves, "What did I do wrong?"

Dr. Steffek believes that alcoholism is a blameless problem. "Nobody," he says, "can be held solely responsible — not even the teen. The responsibility falls on the individuals who won't get help for themselves or for somebody else."

A large percentage of teenagers experiment with alcohol for various reasons. Dr. Steffek says that about one out of every 10 teens who drink will have an alcoholic problem. Why does this one out of the ten have problems? The reasons vary immensely, from psychological factors to physical reactions. Teenage alcoholics need understanding and helpful guidance, he says; the teenager becomes a victim of the bottle just like any other alcoholic.

Recognizing that an alcoholic problem exists is half the battle, Dr. Steffek cites danger signs which may be indicators of an alcoholic problem:

- (1) Increased and binge drinking.
- (2) Preoccupation with increased drinking.
- (3) Morning drinking.
- (4) Drinking alone.
- (5) Missing school.
- (6) Mood changes.
- (7) Memory loss and blackouts.
- (8) Withdrawal signs after drinking.

Dr. Steffek says that help is available for anybody. "Help is as close as the nearest phone. Hot lines are open 24 hours a day and a call to a professional group dealing with alcoholic problems is always a good idea. "Personal confidentiality is always the rule. It just takes the realization, which is a difficult thing, that alcohol is the problem. The call for help is easy."

Applications for state scholarships

Illinois residents who plan to attend college next fall can now file their applications to receive hundreds of dollars per year in financial assistance from the Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC).

The ISSC is a state agency administering a variety of scholarship, grant, and loan programs which can be used by state residents who wish to continue their education beyond high school but who will need help paying the high costs of college or vocational school education.

The agency's largest program of grant assistance is called the Monetary Award Program, under which eligible applicants could qualify for up to $1,500 per year toward their tuition and fees at nearly 200 approved colleges, universities and allied health training schools in Illinois.

These grants are based primarily on need. They have to be repaid, and can be renewed annually through five years of undergraduate study or until the student receives his bachelor's degree.

During the current school year, the ISSC expects to provide nearly $70 million in grants. Even so, it is anticipated that funds may not be sufficient to meet the needs of all who apply, so students are being urged to file the required application as soon as possible.

Applications for the 1977-78 Monetary Award Program may now be obtained from high schools, colleges or any one of the following three offices of the ISSC:

102 Wilmot Road, Deerfield 60015 (312-945-1500), 203 N. Wabash, Room 2118, Chicago 60601 (312-793-3745), 525 West Jefferson St., Springfield 62702 (217-782-6767).

HURT IN ACCIDENT

Susan Theis, 17, of 2300 Arnold Drive, suffered injuries to her back and head in an auto accident and was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 8 p.m. Wednesday. X-rays were taken and she was released.

Chester Hehle, garage operator, fatally wounded

Chester R. Hehle, 56, of 3020 Nameoki Road, was found without signs of life in the garage behind his home at 6 p.m. Wednesday and was pronounced dead by Madison County Deputy Coroner Randall Irwin.

Mr. Hehle was found with a bullet wound to the head and a 9 millimeter automatic pistol was found on the floor near him. His wife, Kathleen, said Mr. Hehle had been depressed all day yesterday. He went out to the garage and workshop behind his house and moments later she heard a shot fired. She called employees of Don's Mobil station next door at Nameoki Road and St. Clair Avenue and asked an employee, Steve Brassfield, to check the Hehle garage.

He and another employee, Ron Woodward, checked the garage and Woodward found Mr. Hehle on the floor. The employee returned to the service station and called police.

Officers reported there were no signs of life when they arrived. Irwin was summoned and pronounced Mr. Hehle dead at the scene at 6:30 p.m. He was born in Elkins, W. Va., and had resided in Granite City for 33 years.

He was a self-employed auto mechanic and had operated a garage at his home. Mr. Hehle was treasurer of the Independent Garage Owners organization.

In addition to his wife, survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Patricia Burcham of Granite City, and one grandchild. Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

10th arrest in drug case

Lloyd Nagle, 2127 Fourteenth St., was served warrants in Edwardsburg Monday charging him with unlawful delivery of a controlled substance to undercover officers of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) of Southwest Illinois.

His bond was set at $10,000 and he was taken to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsburg. He was among 10 persons arrested at their Quad-City area homes early Monday in a coordinated series of arrests by MEG after a drug investigation. Countywide, about 35 persons were arrested, most being from the Alton area.

There have been no arrests in the Quad-City area since Monday, a spokesman for the Madison County Sheriff's Department said this morning. Additional arrests are anticipated, since a Madison County grand jury issued a total of 65 suppressed indictments Jan. 13 in connection with the drug investigation.

Car, train collide on 19th Street

Don Dean Jr., 20, of 2232 State St., was injured when his car slid on ice into a moving Central Corp. train engine at the 19th Street railroad crossing at 6:10 a.m. Wednesday.

Dean said he heard the train whistle and saw the engine crossing the tracks. But when he applied his brakes, the car skidded on the icy pavement. He said he turned left to attempt to miss the engine, but his car then went out of control on ice and struck the right rear of the engine.

Dean's parents took him to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he was treated for abrasions to his right leg and right shoulder. X-rays were taken and he was released.

The accident impeded morning rush-hour traffic coming into the downtown area.

WOMAN INJURED

Mrs. Fairlee Bailey, 41, Florissant, Mo., was injured early this week in an auto accident at Route Three and West Penton Road and was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for a cut to her mouth and an abrasion to her right cheek, which struck the steering wheel. X-rays were taken and she was released.

Fire did an estimated $3,500 damage to the structure and $1,500 to the contents of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Aaron, 2024 (rear) 14th St. at 2:06 p.m. Wednesday.

Firemen were at the scene for an hour and 25 minutes. Cause of the fire is believed to have been defective wiring to lamps.

Letter from Washington

by Senator Charles H. Percy

The term "fiscal responsibility" is a popular term in Washington these days.

The nation's bouts with inflation and unemployment have helped dismantle the myth that fiscal conservatives are always opposed to social programs. Americans realize that government programs with bloated budgets are not cure-alls for our problems and huge Federal budget deficits fan the fire of inflation.

The 94th Congress reflected this new mood in the country and demonstrated a commitment to more responsible government spending by implementing the new Congressional budget process. The system, which established annual spending and deficit ceilings, has successfully changed the traditional Congressional pattern of voting costly new programs without accounting for funding. It also has given Congress a greater voice in setting Federal budget policy and spending priorities.

The 95th Congress must carry this renewed sense of fiscal responsibility further and initiate a "sunset" system for reviewing all Federal appropriated programs and agencies. We simply cannot allow programs to continue year after year without assessing their cost-benefits and justifying needs for continuation.

In 1975, the General Accounting Office reported that Federal regulations cost our economy a staggering $60 billion a year. Much of this costly regulation is the result of a sprawling bureaucracy that has grown almost unchecked. Year-in and year-out, many Federal regulatory agencies have been funded by Congress with virtually no evaluation of their performance. Under such a free rein, many of the agencies have become inefficient and counterproductive.

Passage of a "sunset" law for federal regulations should be a top priority for the new Congress. Along with Majority Leader Robert Byrd, I plan to reintroduce a bill which would establish a rigid timetable for reviewing and reforming the Federal regulatory system.

Under the legislation, Congress and the Administration would be forced to reassess and reauthorize regulatory agencies by a specific date. Unless a comprehensive review is completed on schedule, effected agencies would lose their authorities and eventually they would be abolished. The success of the Congressional sunset process proves that Congress has the self-discipline to control Federal spending. Passage of "sunset" laws for federal spending bills and regulations would further demonstrate the Congressional commitment to fiscal responsibility and efficient government.

loyal to your life-mate and don't gossip or talk with others about your private life.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20) — Also Pisces Ascendant) — A new position career-wise demands a mature, well-groomed image. The good fortune that comes to you now is lasting. Be honest and decisive in your dealings with others. A favorable opportunity may be offered.

Winter storm severe test of drivers' preparations

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

During a winter storm, your automobile can be your best friend or your worst enemy, depending on your preparations.

In order to assure that your car is fully winterized, each of the following items should be checked: ignition system, battery, lights, tire tread, cooling system, fuel system, lubrication, exhaust system, heater, brakes, wiper blades, defroster, chains, snow tires, antifreeze and winter-grade oil. It's also a good idea to maintain a full tank of gasoline in order to keep water out of your fuel.

If you are planning a long distance winter drive, you should carry a winter storm car kit with you.

This kit should contain: blankets or sleeping bags, matches and candles, facial tissue, paper towels, extra clothing, high-calorie non-perishable food, compass and road maps, knife, first-aid kit, shovel, flashlight or signal light, windshield scraper, booster cables, two tow chains, fire extinguisher, catalytic heater and axe.

Winter automobile travel should be taken seriously.

If you run into a storm which exceeds, or even tests, your limitations, seek available refuge immediately. Plan your travel, selecting primary and alternate routes. Check the latest weather information on your radio.

Try not to travel alone and, if possible, travel in convoy with another vehicle. Always fill your gasoline tank before entering open country, even for a short distance. Above all... in any kind of weather... drive carefully and drive defensively.

If you want more information concerning winter storms and your automobile, write to: Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Education and Information, 535 W. Jefferson, Springfield 62761.

Refer locks study to new administration
Any further studies of engineering controversies surrounding Locks and Dam 26 at Alton will be left to the next secretary of Transportation, according to Secretary William T. Coleman Jr.

Retiring Secretary Coleman said that another engineering evaluation of Locks and Dam 26 with respect to risks of failure associated with the present structure, cost of rehabilitation, and cost of replacement will be needed by any Transportation secretary before he can make an informed recommendation to Congress about the proper course of action to remedy the deterioration problems, in the present facility.

The secretary said his staff is preparing and will put out for bid an appropriate work statement on the engineering aspects of the Alton Locks and Dam controversy.

He went on to say that "the best interests of the government will be served if the study is paid for entirely out of public funds, without participation of interested parties."

Cage Cougars resume action

In their first home game of the year, the SIUE basketball Cougars had defeated Missouri Baptist College but they were victimized upon returning to the road by Oakland City College in Oakland City, Ind., and Indiana State U.-Evansville during the weekend.

SIUE lost 86-76 to the Oakland City Oaks. The Oaks' freshman guard, Tom Emerson, pumped in 13 of 17 field goal tries and totaled 27 points for the winners. Keil Peebles and Bobby Herrod topped Cougar scorers with 12 each.

Larry Gilstrap, a 6-9 transfer from the Louisville U. Cardinals, grabbed 22 rebounds and contributed 14 points to the Oakland City cause.

SIUE trailed 39-38 at halftime, and when Bob Catchings fouled out with six minutes to play, the Cougars lost their leading rebounder. Jim Allen pulled down 15 rebounds, while Catchings had 13.

Indiana State U.-Evansville handed the Cougars their second straight loss, 71-70. With 1:05 to play, the Cougars trailed 70-68 but had possession of the ball. They carefully worked the ball around until ten seconds remained, but missed the shot. Doug Labhart grabbed the rebound for the Screaming Eagles and was immediately fouled. He made the first free throw of a one-and-one to clinch the victory. Keil Peebles, en route to 26 points for the game to lead all scorers, tallied at the buzzer for SIUE.

DeJuan Rowser (14 points) led the Eagles' offense.

The Cougars fell to 4-7 while Indiana State upped its mark to 7-6.

The Cougars return to the road tonight as they travel to Greenville, Ill. Then, on Saturday, it'll be the first "big" one of the season for the charges of Jim Dudley. They'll play the Rivermen of Missouri University-St. Louis on the UMSL court.

NORTH WRESTLING MEET. A large crowd on a cold night watched heated action Tuesday evening as Steeler Steve Hartline

Gardens. Hartline lost this bout but the North Steelers won the meet 29-22 to remain undefeated.

Steelers vs. Triad in consolation game of tourney tonight

GCHS North's Steeler cagers will meet Triad (St. Jacob-Troy-Marine) at seven o'clock this evening in consolation competition of the ninth annual Belleville East tournament.

The Steelers fell into the consolation bracket in losing Tuesday night's opening-round game to Centralia's Orphans 77-53. Triad lost to host East 87-47. East's Lancers and Centralia play at 8:30 tonight in a semifinal contest, with the victor advancing into the 8:30 p.m. Saturday championship contest.

A victory tonight by North High would place the Steelers in a 2:30 p.m. Saturday game for consolation honors. A loss tonight would see North play at 1 p.m. Saturday for third place in the consolation bracket.

Against Centralia, the Steelers led 14-0 and then trailed 30-25 and 56-42 at the quarters. Each team scored 21 points in the final period.

Centralia made 30 field goals in 59 attempts and North 29 of 55. The Orphans sank 17 charity tosses and the Steelers only five.

North committed the most fouls, 24-12, and turnovers, 27-21. The Steelers held the edge in rebounding, 23-21.

Centralia attained the half-time lead by hitting on nine 17 basket tries in the second period while North meshed five of 12 attempts.

Steeler Bob Schefke, who tallied eight points in the first half, was the target of many North passes in the third period and netted 14 of his team's 17 points. But 12 baskets by Centralia enabled the Orphans to add to their lead.

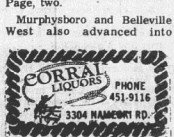

Coach William "Bill" Ohlendorf's cagers had threatened to regain the lead in the third quarter when two straight baskets by Schefke narrowed Centralia's lead to 44-42 with 3:15 remaining. But the Orphans scored six field goals in the next two minutes while shutting out North High.

Foul trouble in the last quarter hurt the Steelers and enabled the opponents to put 13 free throws through the hoop. North's scoring power was weakened due to fouls when Schefke left the game with 4:12 left, Chris Page with 2:29 remaining and Rodney Wortham with 33 seconds showing on the clock.

Orphan Curtis Blount topped all scorers with 24 points, and Schefke provided 22 points for North.

Scoring also for North were Wortham 18, Chris Page nine, Alan Warfield and Rick Willard six each and Dennis Page, two.

Unbeaten mat Steelers trail 22-18, win 29-22

Coach Walter Whitaker's Steeler matmen kept their 1976-77 season undefeated status intact (15-0) at home Tuesday evening, defeating Riverview Gardens 29-22 in a come-from-behind win.

The defending Missouri state champion Riverview Rams took an early lead on points with a 5-1 decision over Kevin Shermwell (98 pounds) and then trailed GCHS North when Kris Whelan (105) pinned his opponent in 3:48.

Riverview tied the meet with a 10-5 decision over Tracy

Patton (112) and went ahead 11-6 in team points on an 18-0 decision over Kirk Davis (119). Three consecutive wins regained the lead for the Steelers.

Matt McCullough (126) won in 4:58, Steve Haefer (132) won 8-4 and John Sands (138) won 6-2 for an 18-11 team lead.

The Missouri squad closed the gap with a 1-0 win over Ray Stuart (145) and then surged ahead 22-18 on points, winning 15-3 over Steve Hartline (155) and 4-2 over Jerry Broadwater (167).

Mark Widel (185) executed a takedown and two near-falls before pinning his foe in 1:50 to put the Steelers back on top, 24-22.

Heavyweight James Shermwell kept Steeler fans cheering during his bout, initiating a takedown and a near-fall in the first period, and a reversal and near-fall in the second period. He then produced two near-falls in the final period to ice North's victory with a 16-0 decision over his foe.

jurisdiction of the Appellate Court at Mount Vernon.
The court may grant extensions to any part of the timetable if reasonable cause for a delay can be shown.
Hill said he is questioning whether a state law allowing the creation of special service areas—and taking only the people in those areas for improvements—is constitutional under the 1970 Illinois Constitution, and, if it is, whether portions of the Illinois Constitution may be in conflict with the U.S. Constitution.

He said numerous counties level first, Hill said.

Hartman also said he welcomes an immediate challenge in the Supreme Court, thus eliminating a set of hearings at the Appellate Court before the issue reaches the Illinois Supreme Court justices.
He said he is unable at this time to specifically respond to any of Hill's constitutional challenges, since Hill's brief has not yet been prepared.

The appeal is a decision by Circuit Judge E. Harold Wineland of Flora, who upheld the county's right to create special service areas and to tax those in the areas for improvements, including sewers.
Judge Wineland's decision was reached after a hearing in Edwardsville, he rejected post-trial motions after a second hearing.

Walter "Dick" Sparks, chairman of the Madison County Special Sewer Committee, said the filing of the appeal is a blow to the project but added, "Hopefully, we will overcome it."
He said he hopes contractors and suppliers will stay firm on their construction bid prices so that work can get under way without rebidding when the legal challenge is concluded.

The committee also is attempting to get a commitment from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency that its 75 per cent grant offer will be held until the suit is resolved.
Sparks said he and some of the other committee members will go to Springfield Monday to talk with EPA officials to seek that commitment.

Over $12 million in state and federal funds is being offered for the construction costs and the committee is attempting to sell $5 million in general obligation bonds to finance the local share of the construction and planning cost. Not all phases of the work qualify for the grant provisions.
A special service area encompassing those who are to be provided sewer service by the new sanitary sewers is being established and the bonds and interest would be paid by taxing those owning property in the special service area, if the county's plan is implemented.
Sanitary collector and interceptor sewers are planned in a small portion of Venice Township, through the Stallings, Pontoon Beach and Miracle Manor areas of Nameoki Township, and into Mitchell in Chouteau Township.
From Mitchell, the sanitary sewers would empty into existing Granite City sewers on the Granite City Army Installation property and the waste would be treated at the city's primary and secondary sewage treatment plants, according to the plan.
Opponents object to paying for the local share through property taxation. They also contend some persons are listed in the project who already are provided sewer service through subdivision and housing project sewer systems.
The county committee believes most private and subdivision sewage treatment facilities will soon be ordered by the EPA to convert to more expensive and more modern treatment facilities.
Committee members also have said that paying the cost of the local share through taxation has been found to be the only method of financing it.
Revenue bonds, repaid by sewer use fees, would require nearly $1 million more to be paid in interest and in bond depreciation costs, if the revenue bonds could be sold, they contend.
Also, the committee found revenue bonds impossible to sell because there is not enough income, as would be the case if the sewers installed by a water district that could cut off water service to non-payers.

and was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital in fair condition.
The other passenger in Lawary's auto, Mrs. Evelyn Patterson, 42, East St., was bruised her left lower leg and right elbow and was admitted here in fair condition.
Madison County sheriff's deputies reported Mr. Young's auto was northbound when it skidded broadside across the southbound lanes, struck the guardrail on the west side of the viaduct and then skidded another 50 feet broadside before making contact with the southbound auto of Lawary.
Lawary said he saw the car sliding toward him and tried to turn away, but lost control and his auto struck the right front fender and door of Mr. Young's auto.
The accident occurred as deputies were still clearing the scene of another two-car accident less than a quarter-mile south of the viaduct.
That accident occurred at 12:05 a.m. Tuesday when the auto of Eugene C. Lyman, 62, St. Louis, drove from a railroad drive near the underpass by Bell Road into the southbound lanes and was involved in an accident with the southbound auto of Karen Starr, 30, of 2734 National Ave.
Karen Starr said she saw the car drive from the driveway and she reversed right to try and avoid the accident, but was unable to do so and the vehicles collided. Upon impact, her auto spun around and ended facing north.
Lyman had obvious injuries, but declined to be taken to the hospital. Karen Starr was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where she was treated for injuries to her chest. X-rays were taken and she was released.
Joint funeral services for the 12:30 a.m. Tuesday crash victims are to be held at 7 p.m. Sunday in the New Salem Baptist Church, Venice. They will be held at an East St. Louis funeral home after 1 p.m. Sunday.
T. B. Young is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ameter Young, brothers, Henry, Brett, Theodore, Jessie, Eldridge and Michael Young, and sisters, India, Patricia, Mary, Shirley, Rosetta and Renee Young, all of Venice.
He worked for the Madison Iron and Metal Co.

Ambulances

Illinois Department of Public Health.

At Wednesday's meeting, Santoro explained that the state has grants available to pay 70 per cent of the cost of ambulances, radios, medical furnishings and other equipment, up to a total cost of $20,000 per ambulance.

He explained that if the city purchases a $20,000 ambulance, the state will pay $14,000 and the city would have to pay the remaining $6,000.

The grant application was prepared for four ambulances, with $56,000 sought from the state and $24,000 listed as the municipality's share of the cost. Schuler said the plans are still "very tentative" at this time, since no provision has yet been made for the upkeep or manning of the ambulances.

He said proposals to have firemen man the ambulances would not, in his opinion, be workable, since those busy on calls would not be available to fight fires.

"We could use Manpower grant employees as long as the Manpower program is continued, but what then? We estimate we would need 11 men to staff the ambulances full-time, and each would cost the city about $12,000 per year, when you include insurance and fringe benefits.

"For 11 men, that would be a total of $132,000 per year, plus the cost of upkeep and insurance on the ambulances.

"This is one of these programs where they give you a sweet deal in getting started, and then you don't get anything to continue it, so it would wind up costing the city a great deal of money.

"We estimate it would cost us $200,000 per year to operate four ambulances, after the Manpower program ends," Mayor Schuler commented.

He said alternate means of financing the ambulance service have been explored through U.S. Congressman Melvin Price and through the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, but no answers have been found.

A letter from Cong. Price said federal revenue sharing funds may be used to operate an ambulance service, but Mayor Schuler noted that most of the American Bank growth; extended hours are cited

"The year 1976 was a year that held many challenges for the American National Bank of Granite City. But we were able to meet those challenges and, as a result, the bank enjoyed excellent growth for the year," Henry D. Karandjeff, chairman and president, commented at the bank's annual stockholder meeting Wednesday.

Karandjeff added, "The prospects for the future look even more promising."

"American National Bank is located at the crossroads of the business and residential communities. Thus, we are able to serve the financial needs of a large segment of our market."

"One of the most important steps we took in the past year to better serve our community was to extend our banking hours."

"By having facilities open evenings and on Saturdays, we feel we have added a convenience for the working person who found it inconvenient to bank during our previous hours."

The street department is to receive delivery soon of two new trucks that could accommodate the plow blower.

Alderman Roy Poulos suggested that the council map a "snow route" to set priorities for the cleaning of streets in periods of heavy snowfalls, such as those the city received during the past several weeks.

"Fourteen inches of snow has fallen in the area since Jan. 2," Lionel Portelli, street superintendent, told the aldermen that the city has no snow plows, but has been using graders to plow streets when the snow becomes heavy.

"This is a slow process and we would be able to clean streets much faster with snow plows," Portelli said. Boyd said, "We are talking about $2,000 for each unit."

Portelli told the council that "we can expect some complaints from citizens, which we always get, about covering their driveways, but we will be able to move fast with snow plows and will be unable to stop to clear out driveways. Keeping their drives open should be the responsibility of the citizens."

Blevins said the street department "should be commended for the work it has done during the heavy snow. There was trouble everywhere, but people were able to get through."

Portelli said the street department has used 500 tons of salt since the snows began Jan. 2, but that in extreme cold weather "salt doesn't do much good. We spread salt at an intersection, but in a few hours it is glazed over again. We have been using cinders to a great extent but are just about at the end of our supply."

"It will be necessary to publish a snow route to determine which streets shall be cleared first," Portelli said, because "we can't get to all of them fast enough to satisfy everybody."

The council Tuesday night also accepted a bid of the Advanced Communications Inc., of Fairview Heights to furnish two mobile radio units for the street department. The company was the low bidder, offering the two General Electric units at $688 each, or $1,376 for both.

More help sought for ill veteran

A spokesman for the Disabled American Veterans' organization said this week that the DAV has made a major effort to help one of its members, but additional help is being sought.

The Press-Record recently carried an appeal for help from an ill veteran who needs transportation several times each year to and from Barnes Hospital, St. Louis. It was erroneously noted that the DAV is unable to provide this service.

The spokesman said the DAV can provide this service, but not on a permanent basis. He noted the man for which additional help is sought has been taken by DAV members or by transportation arranged by the DAV to and from the hospital six times recently.

The spokesman suggested other organizations to which the man belongs should attempt to match the service already provided by the DAV.

Anyone able to help is urged to contact the Department of Veterans Affairs at 1-465-3216.

Karandjeff closed with an "optimistic look at the future prosperity" of this community.

"In the last few years, businesses and homes in our area have been constructed at a very satisfactory rate."

"When American National Bank was built, it was almost isolated. Today, it is surrounded by shopping centers."

"Obviously, this was good for the bank. But, even more important, it shows the confidence that businessmen have in our community."

"They have invested in the Quad-Cities and, by doing so, have offered such a diversification of goods and services that shopping at home has become a very definite reality."

"This, coupled with the widespread support of our local businesses, promises a very bright future for our community."

Announcement was made that two new directors have been elected to the bank's board. They are Paul H. Kelly and Robert Henry Karandjeff, succeeding E. A. Karandjeff and the late Arthur F. Bunte.

Kelly is plant manager of the A. O. Smith Corporation plant in Granite City. He has had a long association with the Granite City auto frame plant, dating back to 1968.

Long active in community service, Kelly is a member of the board of directors and a past president of the Tri-Cities Area United Way. He headed that organization from 1973 to 1975. He is on the board of directors of Junior Achievement of the Mississippi Valley. He is a member of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and is on the executive committee of the Southern Illinois Industrial Association.

Kelly and his wife, June, are members of Sunset Hills Country Club.

Robert Henry Karandjeff is a representative of the Prudential Insurance Company. A lifelong resident of Granite City, he was educated in the Granite City school system and has degrees from Westminster College and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

He served with the United States Army as a missile specialist and, at the time of discharge, was a sergeant E-5.

Karandjeff and his wife, Bonnie, reside in Granite City and are members of the First United Presbyterian Church, where he is on the Board of Trustees.

Directors re-elected were Ernest R. Bickhaus, Dr. Apostie D. Karandjeff, Henry D. Karandjeff, William M. Kozay, Robert A. Maddox and Kiro Vasiloff.

Officers of the bank elected for 1977 were Henry D. Karandjeff, chairman and president; Dave Giese, vice-president and cashier; Charles J. Baricovic, vice-president; Leo Roth, assistant vice-president; Helen Mangoff, assistant cashier; and Darlene Falovich, assistant cashier.

Asadorian (Miss Madison County Fair), Kandy Thoma (Miss Georgetown Fair), Rev. Risley (Miss Pike County Fair), eventual winner Mercedes Izquierdo (Miss Moultrie-Douglas County Fair), Jackie Foehr (Miss Farmer City Fair). Also Cathleen Ann Glucas (Miss Henry County Fair), Celeste Senne (Miss DuPage County Fair), Julie Conine (Miss Edgar County Fair), Judy Bowdley (Miss Platt County Fair) and Donna Blichkan (Miss Adams County Fair).

association president, from Highland, thanked all the contestants lined along the stage for their participation in the pageant and told them, "You are all winners here tonight in the eyes of your families, friends and the county you represent."

Following evening gown competition by the 10 finalists, Miller introduced the panel of judges:

John Clark, publisher of the State Journal Register, Mrs. William Cellini, a free lance writer, Martha Smith, chairman of the Illinois National Teenage Pageant, Tom Moore, an executive of the Rural Electric Association, George Criminger, Jim Murphy of Tampa, Fla., and Bill Rice, assistant to the president of the University of Illinois. Illinois was well represented with many government officials in the audience, including new Secretary of State Alan Dixon, who introduced several members of the Senate and House.

Dixon said to the county fair queens, "Be proud. You represent the heartland of America."

One at a time, the finalists paraded before the judges in swimsuits, each entertaining thoughts of being chosen as queen as the pageant's conclusion drew near.

While the young ladies were off-stage changing back into their evening gowns and receiving final instructions from Viola Suits, pageant director, Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal was given a standing ovation upon being introduced.

"Gov. Thompson will be here later to crown the new queen," O'Neal accurately predicted.

"I tried to trick him," chided O'Neal, "by telling him this was a meeting of the Society of Sanitary Engineers."

"But when he discovered the truth, he insisted on being here himself."

Gov. Thompson and retiring Queen Elaine Grossman of Ohio, Ill., were scheduled to crown the new queen later.

The final segment of competition followed, with each contestant asked to give impromptu answers to such questions as:

"What is an ideal length of time for courtship before marriage?"

"If chosen as queen, who would you want to serve as your escort and why?"

"Are you most like Susan Ford, Marie Osmond or Zsa Zsa Gabor?"

"Describe your dream man. Give your opinion of blind dates."

And, "What was the best thing that has happened to you during this pageant, and the worst thing?"

All stood and applauded when Governor James R. Thompson entered the ballroom and walked immediately to center stage to address those present.

"O'Neal is in big trouble," he joked.

"He wasn't going to tell me this was to be a beauty pageant."

"I have attended a fair every year of my life, and during my campaign last year I toured 44 county fairs."

"You judges are just like the Senate; it hasn't selected a president yet, either."

Then came the long-awaited announcement: "Second runnerup, Miss Platt County Fair, First runnerup, Miss Farmer City Fair. And our queen for 1977, Miss Moultrie-Douglas County Fair."

Miss Asadorian, a junior student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, competed last year in the Miss Illinois pageant after being named earlier as Miss Granite City.

"She said, 'I feel very honored to have been chosen among the 10 finalists.'"

"As Miss Granite City, I failed to place out of 33 contestants, and here I am a finalist selected from among 53 girls."

Miss Asadorian will continue to represent the Madison County Fair until July, when she will yield her crown to the next queen.

Warranty

regulations require stores to use one of four ways to make warranties available to prospective buyers:

1. By displaying the warranty near the product.
2. By maintaining a binder containing the warranties for different competing products. These binders can either be displayed in the store or the store can post signs telling consumers that binders of warranties are available upon request.
3. By displaying a package with the warranty text.
4. By displaying a sign containing the warranty text.

The regulation also covers catalog, mail order and door-to-door sales.

Under the rule, sellers must disclose next to the description of the warranted product either the full text of the warranty or a statement that the written warranty can be obtained free upon request and the address to write to get the warranty.

For door-to-door sales, the regulation requires that consumers be told prior to the sale that the salesman has copies of the warranties and that these can be inspected at any time during the sales presentation. This regulation is only one of several that the FTC has issued or proposed concerning warranties.

If you would like more complete information on this regulation or more general facts on warranties, you may want to contact the Office of Public Information, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580, or call 202-523-3830.

Treatment plant class

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, in cooperation with the Illinois Society of Water Pollution Control Operators, will hold a one-day seminar at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Wednesday, Jan. 26, for certified sewage treatment plant operators, those wishing to become certified and other interested persons.

The program is "Calculation of the geometric mean for the fecal coliform test (membrane filter method)." It will be held at the Environmental Resource Training Center (ERTC) auditorium at the local university. Registration fee is $1.

Results from coliform tests are an important indicator of the existence of possible pathogenic organisms," said Ernest Bennett, manager, operator training and certification, IEPA.

"Health is the major concern. If pathogens are present, dysentery, typhoid or other diseases could infect the population."

To run a fecal coliform test, a measured sample of effluent is run through a membrane filter by use of a vacuum. Fecal colonies are trapped on the filter, which is then incubated and the colonies counted to determine the number per 100 milliliters.

Existing IEPA operating permits require that sometime this year the test become a standard part of routine testing. Those attending the seminar will receive one point credit toward certification requirements and will also receive a certificate of completion by mail.

For further information, Quad-Cityans may contact Jerry Olmstead, 2802 Morning Star Drive, Alton 62002, telephone 896-5001.

Weather hazardous to plants but snow is protecting roots so far

Area Advisor
Ornamental Horticulture
"Bitter cold" seems to best describe our weather. Unexpected frosts in October and frosts in November, a series of driving snowstorms and a lot of below-zero weather all add up to a tough winter. And this is still only January.

But plants seem to be taking it pretty well. Here is a list of circumstances that can spell disaster, and a commentary on the events to date.

Heavy frosts in October and record low temperatures in November.

Temperature records showed a low of 22 degrees on Oct. 23, a drop to 21 on Oct. 28, and 14 degrees on Nov. 14.

Severe frosts this early in the fall usually freeze a lot of twigs and buds. In the spring, this effect shows up as dieback of twigs and suckering from thumb-sized twigs.

Lots of dry leaves hanging on sweet gums, willows, raspberries, etc., makes the twig dieback theory look good.

Fluctuating temperatures in midwinter result in limbs and tree trunks cracking and scalding.

Changes from 50 degrees one day to zero the next, and then in a few days back to 50, are ideal circumstances for scald injury (strips of dead bark on the southwest side of trees).

So far, these circumstances have not occurred.

Persistent sub-zero weather causing deep freezing of the soil and eventually killing of the roots at the soil surface.

The deep-freezing effect is a drying of the twigs (and leaves) because roots in frozen ground cannot gather and move water to the tops. Here is where mulching pays off.

This type of twig damage is known as winter-burn, and occurs frequently in evergreens like southern magnolia, holly, evergreen euonymus and boxwood.

When root-kill occurs, plants like faster holly, sweet gum and golden arbutus never respond to spring weather.

This winter, we have the cold weather, but the deep snow is providing the perfect mulch.

As long as the snow continues, the roots of hardy plants are protected, as well as evergreen ground covers that are covered with snow.

A late spring freeze after plants have begun to develop leaves and flowers?

Only time will tell.

But we can all recall what happened in the spring of 1973, 1974 and 1976 when orchards lost their peaches and plums, and we all saw frozen magnolias, crabapples that did not bloom, and frosted dogwoods.

New legislation among court officers' topics

The quarterly meeting of the Illinois Probation and Court Officers Association concluded yesterday at the Holiday Inn near Collinsville.

Numerous topics of interest to probation and court personnel were discussed and studied during the two-day event, including new legislation, juvenile detention, confidentiality, prisoner treatment, repeat offenders and others.

The quarterly event began at 3 p.m. Tuesday with registration, followed by committee meetings. After dinner, the group heard panel discussions by the association's legislative committee on new and pending legislation affecting the courts and probation officers. Jim Books was moderator.

Bills for which support by the members is urged were explained and strategy to secure passage of the bills was discussed.

Tuesday's events concluded with a hospitality hour.

A full day of activities began at 8:30 a.m. yesterday with registration, followed at 9 a.m. by several concurrent workshops.

A group toured the Madison County Juvenile Detention home with Ann Perillo, superintendent of the facility.

Another group heard a panel discussion on "Confidentiality in Criminal Justice and Social Service Agencies." Panelists were Sandra Nye, an attorney and assistant director of the Child and Family Law and Psychiatry Institute for Juvenile Research, Chicago; Rod Pitta, assistant Madison County state attorney, and L. Delbert Clemens of the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

A third group heard a representative of the Criminal Justice Information Services, Bureau of Identification, Illinois Department of Law Enforcement, discuss the criminal information system.

He discussed criminal records available to law enforcement and probation personnel; a new reporting system for state's attorneys on court disposition, bonding, performance and incarceration status; individual right to access and review of criminal history records; and federal and state statutes regarding the release of information.

The first session was followed by a coffee break and a second series of concurrent workshops started at 10:45 a.m. Wednesday.

While a second group toured the juvenile detention home, panel discussions were held on "The Right to Treatment Issues," and on "Status Offenders: Problems and Policies."

On the panel on treatment was Sandra Nye; Dr. Lawrence L. Talano, psychologist for the Third Judicial Circuit Court, and a representative of the Illinois Department of Mental Health, Linda Schultze was moderator.

Panelists on status offenders were Allen Carpenter, associate director of juvenile justice, Illinois Law Enforcement Commission; Susan Richmond, assistant director of the Illinois Status Offenders Project; and Associate Judge Philip Rarick, who served as moderator.

A buffet luncheon followed. The afternoon session included a business meeting in which new legislation, membership and other business were discussed.

The event concluded at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Smith sales in '76 up sharply

Sales and earnings of A. O. Smith Corporation in 1976 were up sharply over 1975. L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, reported this week.

"Dollar sales were a record," Smith said, "and earnings from continuing operations were the second best we have experienced."

There has been a good turn-around year for the company," he said, "although we are still far from satisfied with our return on shareholders' equity of 10.7 per cent."

Sales from continuing operations in 1976 were $619,467,000, with earnings of $1,627,000, or $3.19 per share, compared with 1975 sales of $547,000,000, and earnings of $4,070,000, or $4.25 cents per share.

In the fourth quarter, A. O. Smith had sales of $181,519,000 and earnings from continuing operations of $3,651,000, or 74 cents per share. In the 1975 fourth quarter, sales from continuing operations were $120,546,000 with profits of $3,310,000, or 87 cents per share.

Smith pointed out that in 1975 the company had a loss from discontinued operations and dispositions amounting to $2,987,000 ($2.63 per share), resulting in a total loss for the year of $8,817,000, or $1.80 per share.

The gain from the sale of the petroleum metering business and the favorable adjustment of disposition loss reserves following sale of the Canadian elevator business amounted to $1,575,000 (32 cents per share), providing A. O. Smith with total earnings in 1976 of $17,202,000, or $3.81 per share.

Earnings from continuing operations for the year amounted to $16,229,000, compared with $14,152,000 a year ago.

The company's 40 per cent ownership of a Mexican auto and truck frame manufacturer was affected by the peso devaluation during 1976, Smith said, reducing profits by $1,165,000.

All major operating units of the company had substantially improved results in 1976 compared with the previous year, with the exception of the Reinforced Plastics division of A. O. Smith-India Inc., an affiliate, which had a decline in sales for the year. The affiliate was hurt by sluggish demand for its pipe, particularly in the petroleum markets.

Demand was high for products within the Automotive, Electric Motors and Consumer Products Divisions. This, coupled with stringent cost management programs, significantly boosted profits.

A. O. Smith Harvester Products Inc., a subsidiary which manufactures livestock feeding systems, had improved sales but still reported a loss for the year. However, the loss was considerable below the year ago level, Smith said.

A. O. Smith Corp., with its subsidiaries and affiliates, is a diversified manufacturer. Its product line includes water heating equipment, electric motors, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, auto and truck frames, fiber glass reinforced plastic pipe, metal powders and compacter services.

Ebersoldt in hospital

Venice Mayor William Ebersoldt became the first patient of Corson Extrada, MD, who began practice Monday in Venice with offices at Broadway and Oriole Street.

The City Council was informed Tuesday night.

Alderman Thomas Voegle explained to the council that Dr. Extrada began practice in Venice on Monday and that while helping her move in Friday evening, Mayor Ebersoldt had breathing difficulties and Dr. Extrada examined him, found his blood pressure high and sent the mayor to St. Elizabeth Hospital for an examination.

The mayor reportedly is doing well in the hospital.

Alderman E. Harry Buente of the First Ward acted as mayor pro tem during the council session.

Dr. Extrada is the only physician in Venice. Her office phone number is 451-1400.

The council approved the treasurer's report for December that showed a $34,700 balance in the general fund. City Comptroller Carl Byrnes reported that last week the city received $28,900 in Federal Revenue Sharing funds.

Center provides direct counseling help to many Quad-Cityans

(Community Education Committee of the Mental Health Clinic, Quad-City Center, Madison County, Inc.)

Diverse services are offered at 2024 State St., the Mental Health Clinic Quad-City Center. The Madison County Mental Health Clinic was organized in 1957 by a group of people of the county.

The steering committee met at Alton, with the members agreeing to return to their areas and to try to get people interested in the project.

Later in 1957, the committee met at Alton, organized the group and elected officers.

In 1958, the organization was able to use part of a building formerly owned by Shurtliff College.

In 1959, those in the Quad-Cities realized that many people lacked transportation to Alton. With the help of organizations and people in the Quad-City and Collinsville and with community spirit, they were able to open the Quad-City Clinic Jan. 6, 1960, on Niedringhaus Avenue in Granite City.

Problems of Alton and Granite City were so different that they decided to separate from the Alton Center.

Henry Karandjeff was president of both clinics, and became the "transition president," successfully working with the staff and directors of both clinics.

The Granite City directors met, organized, and elected Nicholas Brink as the new president. Karandjeff and Brink then took legal action to separate the two clinics.

The center moved to 2024 State St. in 1967.

The presidents since this move were Edwin Reiske, John Bina, Darwin Siegle, William Kinder, the Rev. Ellis Dugger and the current President, Louis Paschoff.

A. D. Datuin is medical director and William Atkins is executive director.

The board of directors consists of President Louis Paschoff, Vice-President William Kinder, Secretary Evelyn Leeper, Treasurer Ruth Lamb, Bill Bina, Bill Burns, Gladys Chapman, Ed Heintz, Nancy Kidder, Dr. Felicia Koch, Eva Meier, John Novotny and Mary Ropac.

Eva Meier, a charter board member, commented "Because of the Madison County care about people, we have grown from three rooms to three buildings."

"We have prevented unnecessary hospitalizations at the state facility in Alton and at community hospitals."

"I believe this is due to the excellent services of our board of directors members, who serve without pay, the 708 Board and the State of Illinois Mental Health Board."

"Mental health service is helping people to be happy by helping one another."

The administrative staff here consists of the medical director, the executive director, the coordinator of training, evaluation and research, and the office manager.

The clinic staff is further organized into the departments of inpatient, outpatient services, adult development center, community intervention services, family development program and secretarial staff.

The Mental Health Clinic is open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings until 8 p.m.

Fees are assessed on the person's ability to pay.

Crisis intervention services are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week by calling the clinic number.

The responsibility of the overall psychiatric care for clients who present themselves for treatment is on the medical director, Alex Datuin, M.D., who has been employed by the clinic since 1968.

He is certified by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology which enables him to practice psychiatry and diagnose and treat disorders of the nervous system.

Dr. Datuin participates in both of the satellite centers in Highland and Edwardsville.

William T. Atkins, M.S.W., has been at the Madison County Mental Health Clinic Quad-City Center for six years, offering services as a student, director of the Adult Development center, and as executive director since July 1975.

As executive director, Mr. Atkins oversees the functions of the clinical and secretarial staff through the program directors and office manager.

In addition, he acts as liaison between the board of directors and the staff. He has served as an active member of the Illinois Association of Community Mental Health Agencies, which has as its purpose the promotion of better mental health services to the people of Illinois through the exchange of professional knowledge.

He is a member of the National Association of Social Workers and the Am. Can. Association of Sociologists.

Jeffrey Silverberg, Ph.D., is the clinic's coordinator of training, evaluation and research.

Presently, he spends 75 percent of his time in administration, developing research guidelines, defining tasks and objectives for the evaluation process and working up a design for training individuals at all experience and educational levels.

The other 25 percent of his time is spent in direct adult services doing individual, family, group, marital, and diagnostic psychological testing.

He plans to begin the first marital therapy group at the clinic early in the year.

The program director for the secretarial staff at the clinic is the office manager, Mrs. Beverly.

She has been with the clinic for 10 years, and has held the position of office manager for six years.

She is in charge of distribution of administrative work among the secretarial staff. She supervises the secretaries and is the resource person for secretarial problems.

In addition, she attends the weekly program director's meetings and is the liaison for relaying information to the secretaries on decisions and operations of the clinic, usually by way of bi-weekly secretarial meetings held in her office.

Dewey Mathews is director of adult outpatient services.

He received his degree from the University of Tulsa in 1956 and has been with the clinic for 11 years.

Prior to that time, he was with the Alton-Granite City Clinics when they were one.

His interests and expertise lie in insight-directed psychotherapy, hypnosis, behavior modification and diagnostic skills.

The Adult Development Center (ADC) is a day treatment, group-oriented program where persons engage in daily socialization, recreation and discussion.

The program director is John V. Johnson, A.C.S.W., a certified social worker.

A long time employee of this clinic, he blends his skills in counseling, administration and supervision.

He is a source of support, guidance and leadership for the ADC team of staff psychologists, social worker, psychiatric nurse, occupational therapist and secretary.

Ron Randall, M.S.W., is program director of the Community Intervention Service, and has been employed at the clinic since 1971.

He and his four staff members provide the following community services:

Outreach and clinic extensions of services to their various problems with referral to appropriate community resources; after-care for those individuals who have been hospitalized at the Alton Mental Health Center and consultation to long-term care facilities. The family development program specializes in helping families with children aged 17 and under.

The staff is comprised of a child psychiatrist, psychologists, social workers and an outreach worker.

Services offered are individual and family therapy, school consultation and intervention, home observation, school resources, community presentations, and psychiatric and psychological research.

Carl Meyer, program director, is a certified social worker.

He received his BA in sociology from SIU in 1966, and earned his MSW degree in 1972 from Washington University.

"It is amazing how much control you have over what your world runs smoothly. The most important factor is you."

A good thing to know—particularly for those times when it seems you are considerably pushed around by circumstances beyond your control.

The fact is that you can't win them all, as the saying goes. But a positive approach to life problems is helpful in building and maintaining good mental health.

The quote is from a pamphlet, "It's Good To Know About Mental Health," which is part of HEW's Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration in the federal government.

Following are a few pointers from the pamphlet on how you can help yourself to better mental health.

When an individual relaxes, so can others around him. When is cooperative and outgoing, he stimulates the cooperative spirit in others.

The "easy does it" approach may be best. It means getting the job at hand done without overreacting to a challenge and upsetting others.

Try to analyze and handle anger. Knowing why you are angry and acknowledging it may help.

Don't brood. A change of pace, a refocusing of energies and efforts may help you to do something positive and useful about a problem instead of brooding.

The pamphlet also offers an overview of the various kinds of mental and emotional disorders and a brief discussion of their causes.

Another section gives information for recognizing some of the warning signs of mental health problems for which help may be needed.

What is a mentally healthy person? A full discussion is a large order indeed, but the pamphlet offers incisive general comment. For example:

A mentally healthy person can cope with life. It isn't always easy, but he manages to handle life's usual challenges and the different stages most of us go through—childhood, marriage, work, loss of loved ones, retirement.

The emotionally disturbed or mentally ill person, on the other hand, sees the bad things as exaggerated or larger than life-size.

He loses his grip; life has him on the run.

The joys that should come with healthy living escape him as life becomes essentially a grim experience.

Free single copies of "It's Good To Know About Mental Health" are sent on request by the National Institute of Mental Health, ADAMHA, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20852.

The following activities will be taking place at the local Mental Health Center during the next three months.

To participate in a group, one should have an interest in the topic and a commitment to attend all meetings. Fees are assessed on ability to pay.

A spokesman emphasizes, "If you know someone who could benefit from a group, please have that person call the clinic, 877-4420."

A limited number of people is permitted in each group.

If an individual does not get into the first group, his name will be placed on a waiting list for the subsequent group.

The family development program offers two courses for parents. Both will be offered in January.

FAMILY LIFE Education meets weekly for eight weeks, each session being 1½ hours.

F.L.E. explores various life difficulties encountered by parents of younger children.

PARENTAL RIGHTS and RESPONSIBILITIES is a four-week course, sessions lasting two hours each.

The PREP course examines issues of effective parenting for parents of adolescents. Both courses meet in the evening.

The Adult Outpatient Service offers assertive training groups.

This group focuses on learning how to maintain one's own rights without denying anyone else theirs. It emphasizes learning to communicate feelings and opinions comfortably.

The group meets six consecutive Tuesdays, 1:15-3 p.m. The next group will begin in February.

An ongoing group being held at the clinic includes area clergy and clinic staff members.

The clergy are from the clinic catchment area, which includes the Quad-Cities, Edwardsville, Collinsville, Maryville and Highland and surrounding areas.

This group meets the last Tuesday of the month, 9:30 a.m.-12 noon.

The purpose is to share information and skills related to working with people. Contact is Nancy Fox, 877-4420, for further information.

The clinic offers a group on depression, conducted by Nancy Miller and Phyllis Whitehead, of four weekly sessions of 1½ hours each.

The group explores the causes, symptoms and treatment of depression.

Previous groups have focused primarily on women, but future groups may be held for relatives of depressed people as well as a mixed group of men and women.

Since the starting date is based on need, a new group will begin when a sufficient number of individuals has expressed an interest.

A group teaching the skills of progressive relaxation began Jan. 14, 10 a.m.-12 noon, for eight consecutive Fridays.

Promote 2 at GC Steel

Two promotions in Granite City Steel's Department of Environmental Quality Control were announced today by Dr. Donald F. Cairns, vice president.

Larry G. Siebenberger was moved up to managerial services, and Roger A. Riemann was promoted to manager-industrial hygiene.

These are new positions effective Jan. 1. Both men were environmental specialists previously.

Siebenberger is 27 years old and lives at 128 Chevy Chase Drive, Belleville. He attended Belleville Junior College and received a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1971.

He joined Granite City Steel in October 1971. In his new position, he will have supervisory and scientific responsibilities in field sampling and laboratory analysis.

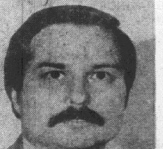

Riemann, 31, lives at 4330 Tanglebrook Dr., Florissant, Mo. A 1972 graduate of the University of Missouri at St. Louis with a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry, he started with Granite City Steel in May 1972.

He has been assigned supervisory and technical responsibilities in the area of industrial hygiene and noise pollution control.

Dr. Cairns said the new positions will strengthen the Granite City Steel total environmental efforts and the consulting services offered by National Steel Corp., of which Granite City Steel is a division.

CLINIC BURGLARIZED

Officials of the Family Planning Clinic, 1239a Nineteenth St., told police Jan. 19 that the clinic was burglarized during the weekend. Stolen were a $100 calculator, a $250 opthalmoscope, two medical instruments valued at a total of $27, and about $13 in postage stamps. Entry was believed gained through the main door which had a faulty lock.

Record natural gas consumption

Record consumption of gas in the Illinois Power Company's 15,000-acre-mile system has not yet required any curtailment of gas to firm customers, including industrial firm users, W. C. Gerstner, executive vice president of the company, said Monday evening.

However, he said, if the weather fails to moderate to a more normal January temperature by the end of this week, the company may have to ask large firm industrial users to reduce usage.

All industrial interruptible rate users are already off the line, he said.

Extremely cold temperatures over the last week have resulted in unusual gas demands, Gerstner said. The 24-hour period ending at noon Monday showed a sendout of 760,343,000 cubic feet, a new record for the IP system. The previous record of 697,400,000 of cubic feet was established in January 1972.

Gerstner asked all users to use all methods possible to cut back on usage during the critical period.

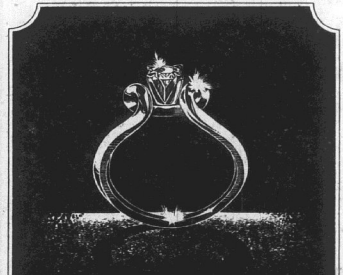

"Please set thermostats at the lowest acceptable reading, keep shades and drapes drawn at night," he urged residential customers. "Make certain that fireplace dampers are closed when the units are not being used."

Illinois Power Company is supplied by five pipelines and, in addition, has eight underground gas storage areas that are used to supplement supplies in situations like the current cold wave.

Finish federal income return before state

One of the best tips for state income taxpayers is to complete their federal income tax return before beginning work on their Illinois return, state revenue officials say.

Adjusted gross income, required on the first line of the Illinois return, is taken directly from the individual's federal return, it was explained.

Even for persons who aren't required to file a federal return, the U.S. 1040 used as a worksheet is considered the easiest way to figure adjusted gross income, subtraction and exemptions to be entered on the state return.

Some documents from the federal return are required for taxpayers who claim certain credits and tax deductions. These documents are used to verify the claims.

Illinois taxpayers are allowed to claim the same number of exemptions on their state return as they claim on their federal return. Each exemption reduces taxable income by $1,000, a direct tax saving of $25, for state residents.

Illinois taxpayers are being advised to avoid common filing errors by reviewing the checklist on the inside cover of the 1976 tax booklet.

Commended by State Board of Elections

A letter of commendation for the proper handling of state requirements governing operations and activities of political committees has been received by Sam Wolf of Granite City, secretary-treasurer of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee.

The letter was received from Franklin J. Lunding Jr., chairman of the Illinois State Board of Elections, who said: "The State Board of Elections has recently undertaken a complete review of all state political committees on file in our Springfield office. As chairman of the State Board of Elections, I received a staff report from Richard H. Andersen, chief of our Public Disclosure Department, listing the results of that review."

"I am pleased to inform you that as of this date the review of your file has indicated that no major errors or discrepancies exist, based upon the information that you have submitted to this agency."

"Although the Illinois Campaign Financing Act is a relatively new law, it is obvious that you have acquired a good working knowledge of the requirements of this law for compliance. It is personally gratifying for me to be able to commend you on this outstanding effort. I would like to stress the importance of your continued good efforts towards compliance with the Campaign Financing Act."

Lincoln string ensemble will give concert

The Lincoln String Quartet at SIUE will present a concert Sunday, Jan. 30, at 3:30 p.m. in the Lovejoy Library auditorium on campus.

"Founded in 1965, the Lincoln String Quartet includes members of the SIUE music faculty who combine active teaching careers with performance."

Members of the quartet include: John Kendall and Kent Perry, violinists; Robert Schaeber, violist; and Joseph Pival, cellist.

They will be assisted by Linda Perry, pianist, and Rico Serbo, tenor.

The concert will open with Benjamin Britten's "String Quartet No. 2, Opus 36," and continue with Joseph Haydn's "Quartet in D Minor, Opus 78."

The program will close with Ralph Vaughan Williams' "On Wenlock Edge." The composition is based on six poems of A. E. Houseman.

The performance of "Quartet No. 2" will be dedicated to the memory of Britten, who died in December. Coming into prominence in the 1930s, Britten composed several film scores, chorus music, chamber music and symphonic works.

According to Kendall, the composer turned his attention to opera in the 1940s and, with Peter Grimes, his reputation in this field was established.

It was during this time that his "Quartet No. 2," called one of the most profound 20th Century works in this medium, was composed.

Lending official to speak

Herbert E. Bowers, assistant vice-president of the Philadelphia National Bank in charge of the mortgage and real estate departments, will discuss the private market lending environment in a conference Jan. 27-28 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The conference, "Helping Inner City Homeowners: Community Development Leveraging Programs and the Lending Institutions," is sponsored by the SIUE Center for Urban and Environmental Research and Services (CUERS), with the cooperation of the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs.

Bowers, a licensed real estate broker in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York and currently president of the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Society of Appraisers, will be one of several speakers who will lay out specifications for community-responsive mortgage lending practices.

In response, local-level government and community development officials will discuss and evaluate their public programs assisting homeowners in inner city neighborhoods, according to Mark L. Drucker, visiting assistant professor and research associate at CUERS.

Cities featured will include Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis and East St. Louis.

Drucker said the purpose of the conference is to facilitate the planning and implementation of the best possible public-private cooperative programming.

"To help in this process, panelists will discuss the application of modified urban triage approaches in Memphis and St. Louis, the Federal National Mortgage Association's view of St. Louis as a national case study of urban investment, performance definitions and indicators for neighborhood programming, and priority-setting for community development revenue sharing funds."

Conference sessions will be held at the Religious Center and in the River Rooms of the University Center, and participants will be welcomed by SIUE's new president, Kenneth Shaw, and the acting director of CUERS, Alfred Kahn.

All persons planning to attend the conference are being encouraged to preregister by writing or calling the SIUE Office of Conferences and Institutes, telephone 692-2600. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Professor Drucker at CUERS, 692-3032.

Welfare fraud cases lead to convictions

Department of Public Aid director, James L. Trainor said today that court trials which concluded this month in St. Clair County ended with the conviction of five welfare recipients for fraud.

Trainor said, "Restitution of over $28,300 by the five persons convicted of welfare fraud was ordered, and four of the five received jail sentences in addition. The fifth was given a two-year probationary sentence."

Mrs. Georgia M. Wren, convicted of welfare fraud after a three-day jury trial, was ordered to make restitution of over $10,000 received in welfare benefits to which she was not entitled and was sentenced to a year of weekends in the St. Clair County Jail. Rosa Gosage, assistant state's attorney, prosecuted the case.

Mrs. Maude Eiland pleaded guilty to fraudulently receiving over $2,400 in public aid benefits and was ordered to make full restitution. She also received a jail term of 45 days which was suspended for 90 days pending restitution.

Joyce Virginia was ordered to repay over $4,000 received fraudulently and to serve four months of weekends in the county jail.

Mary Croger was ordered to repay over $6,300 to the Department of Public Aid and was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. The sentence was suspended pending restitution.

Devery Christian was ordered to repay over $3,600 and was given a two-year probationary sentence.

Sentences were imposed in such a manner that defendants' employment would not be jeopardized, it was noted.

Evidence gathered by the department's East St. Louis special investigations unit led to the trials and convictions of the five.

Man returned to Tennessee

A man who allegedly withheld his identity several days after being arrested Friday night was identified Monday as Charles E. Harris, 22, Clarksville, Tenn., and has been returned to Tennessee authorities for investigation of a jail break.

Harris appeared in court in Granite City Monday and waived extradition. Tennessee authorities picked him up Tuesday and took him to that state.

Granite City police alleged stopping him in a stolen car after a police chase Friday night in the West Granite City area. He was charged, under the name "John Doe," with theft and with five traffic violations.

Detectives said this morning they plan to dismiss local charges in light of the case in Tennessee.

Battery alleged

James E. Monroe, 25, of 430 E. 23rd St., was charged with battery on a complaint signed by his wife, Linda, 19, who alleged at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday that he had beaten her at their home.

She said he returned home, struck her several times, threw furniture and tore pictures from the walls. She was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for facial injuries and was released.

Public defender's chief investigator is dismissed

Ronald Nemeth, 2713 Saratoga St., has been dismissed from his position as chief investigator in the Madison County Public Defender's office but no reason for the dismissal is being given. Public Defender Paul Riley told the Press-Record yesterday that he has no comment other than to confirm Nemeth has been dismissed from the position he held for five years. Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron said yesterday there has been no thought of launching an investigation into aspects of the operation of the public defender's office. When asked if his department is investigating anything surrounding the firing, he said he had "no comment."

The dismissal was on orders from Chief Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark of Madison County Circuit Court, who contended he has the authority to dismiss anyone on the county's judicial payroll. Nemeth earned $14,500 annually.

City pay talks due

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
Negotiations of new salary schedules for Granite City employees in preparation of a new work agreement appears certain to send the city's annual payroll well beyond the $2.5 million mark, it was indicated Tuesday night as City Council members prepared to initiate 1977-78 budget discussions.

A two-year work agreement reached after long negotiations in 1975—which gave city employees salary increases totaling $450,000 over the two-year schedule—will expire on April 30 this year, the end of the current fiscal year.

Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward, chairman of the City Council's negotiating committee, told the aldermen during Tuesday night's council session that negotiations with union officials representing city employees will get under way as soon as preliminary budget figures are given the finance committee by department heads.

Ronald Coleman, alderman of the Seventh Ward and chairman of the finance committee, urged all department heads to submit budget estimates "as soon as possible" to guide finance officials in determining the extent of salary increases.
No figures have yet been computed, Coleman said.

Alderman Decatur told the council, Arthur Griffin, business representative of Laborers Local 997, asked that negotiations begin on a new agreement for laborers of the street department, and Carl P.
Morris, business representative of Painters' Local 120, asked that the contract be reopened
for city painters.
While no reports have yet been made to the aldermen on salary requests, one alderman told the Press-Record that he had been told some employees are planning to ask for wage boosts of up to 15 per cent.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD Thurs., Jan. 20, 1977 Page 23

for discussion of both wages and fringe benefits.
In letters directed to the council, Arthur Griffin, business representative of Laborers Local 997, asked that negotiations begin on a new agreement for laborers of the street department, and Carl P.
Morris, business representative of Painters' Local 120, asked that the contract be reopened
for city painters.
While no reports have yet been made to the aldermen on salary requests, one alderman told the Press-Record that he had been told some employees are planning to ask for wage boosts of up to 15 per cent.

"If any such thing really developed it could bankrupt the city," he said.
In mid-1975, city officials negotiated a new work agreement in which salary raises of 12 per cent were granted all employees for the 1975-76 fiscal year and an increase of eight per cent was granted for the 1976-77 year.
The cost of that increase amounted to approximately $275,000 for the first year and about $175,000 for the second year.
The total payroll for the current fiscal year ending April 30 is $2,350,000.

Barr Co. told the Press-Record this week that Famous-Barr will honor all contracts made between school districts and the Famous-Barr Portrait Division.
Granite City schools were among those having contracts this year with Famous-Barr Portrait to take school photos, including individual portraits, class composite pictures, group pictures and photos of many school activities.
The photo service, operated by American Photo under a lease with Famous-Barr for many years, developed operational difficulties and, finally, ownership of American
the Famous-Barr spokesman said.
He related that up until last week, the photo service was providing "adequate service to the many school districts it serves," but the service ended when the company halted business.

satisfied. We will have a photo studio," the spokesman pledged.
Many families and school staff members have described the school district's switch in 1976-77 to a Missouri studio as creating inconvenience and also as altering the type and volume of photographic services.

Injunction is denied in health system revocation

The Third Judicial Circuit Court has denied a request for an injunction against the city of Madison to prevent revocation of the license of Louis E. McCoy doing business as the Quad-City Health System in Madison.
Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk revoked the license after a hearing on June 8, alleging that the business did not comply with terms of the city ordinance.

"2. That the defendants and its officers, agents and employees should not be enjoined or restrained from enforcing the provisions of the ordinance in question."
"Having so found, the Court hereby enters judgment in favor of the defendant (City of Madison) and against the plaintiffs (McCoy) and denies the relief requested in the prayer of the plaintiffs' complaint."

A court order Friday said: "1.
That the ordinance in question is a valid exercise of a municipal power and authority not preempted by the provisions of an Act in relation to Physical Therapy,
Chapter 91, Sections 23-1 et seq.,
Illinois Revised Statutes."

The order was signed by Associate Circuit Judge Philip Rarick.
The establishment will remain open as a rehearing and reconsideration of the order has been asked by McCoy's attorney.

South faculty to present 'Arsenic and Old Lace'

Rehearsals are under way for the play "Arsenic and Old Lace" being presented by the Granite City High School faculty in the school auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Jan. 27 and 28.
This is the first play the faculty has presented for the past seven years. The faculty had planned to put on the "Odd Couple" several years ago but had to cancel plans due to the auditorium fire.

Hearing due soon in pension case

A circuit court proceeding in which Robert Harris, a former Granite City fireman, is seeking additional disability benefits under a sick leave agreement in effect at the time of his disability, is expected to be scheduled for hearing during February, Irvin Slate Jr., assistant city attorney, informed the City Council Tuesday night.

In an outline of the case, Slate told the aldermen:

"In 1972, he (Harris) underwent treatment for a heart condition, which treatment included open-heart surgery. He applied for a pension. The firemen's pension board granted him a pension under the Illinois Heart and Lung Act. Harris claims that he is entitled to additional payments by reason of the Granite City sick leave agreement in effect on the date of his disability. He relies especially on ordinance 2204 passed in 1964 and 2298 passed in 1966.

"Ordinance 2204 provided, in part, that the city pay the difference between salary and disability benefit where the absence arose by reason of job-related disability. That ordinance also imposed a maximum limit of 126 days. However, 2298 provided that an employee's absence from work due to job connected injury was not to be considered sick leave."

In a previous case, the court construed the ordinances in favor of the employee and required the city to supplement the retirement benefit. The city was required to pay a disabled ex-policeman the difference between his pension and his salary.

Slate noted that the case was filed several years ago, but that no action had been taken until recently when it was moved toward hearing stage.

Raymond Leonard dies at 53

Raymond Leonard, 53, Fayetteville, Ark., formerly of Granite City, died at 8 p.m. Monday at General Hospital in Fayetteville.

Born in Granite City, he attended St. Joseph School and Granite City High School.

Mr. Leonard formerly was employed here by the telephone company and at the time of his death was plant manager of the Shakespeare Co. in Fayetteville.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Leonard; five sons, John Leonard of Sioux Falls, S.

The attorney also delivered to the council Tuesday night a legal opinion involving a case in which a resident is seeking the abatement of sewage treatment charges because sewage from their property is not now reaching the treatment plant because of a fault in a sewer line.

Slate said that the resident informed him he did not believe he should pay treatment charges because sewage from his home was not reaching the treatment plant.

In his opinion to the council Slate said:

"I have reviewed Ordinance 3284, the ordinance establishing rates and charges for the treatment of sewage. I direct your attention particularly to section 3 which states in part: 'a sewage service charge is hereby levied against each improved lot, parcel of land or premises which is connected with or served by the sewer system of the city of Granite City or which may be connected with said sewer system or which has such sewers available for connection or which otherwise discharges sewage, industrial waste, water or other liquids into the city sewer system and the city clerk is hereby directed to make said charges on behalf of the city of Granite City.'

From an examination of the language of section 3 it is apparent that the council adopted a comprehensive plan of treatment plant charges.

Under such circumstances, where a residence is served by a sewer but the service is interrupted temporarily due to malfunction, the treatment plant charges should not abate.

Group to aid retarded seeking funds for bus

The Tri-Cities Association for Retarded, Inc., is seeking a grant, totaling $27,820, to purchase a new bus to transport elderly and handicapped persons within Special Education Region I, encompassing the Madison, Venice and Granite City school districts.

A public meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 31, at St. John United Church of Christ hall, 2901 Nameoki Road, to review the transportation capital grant request being submitted under the Illinois Revised Statutes (1973) and the amended Urban Mass Transportation Act (1964).

Mrs. Helen DeRuntz, an association officer, said the group's regular meeting, usually held on the fourth Monday of each month, has been postponed until Jan. 31 to permit both the public and regular sessions to be scheduled the same night.

The grant application seeks $22,856, or 80 per cent of the total amount, from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, U.S. Department of Transportation, and $4,727 from the Illinois Department of Transportation. The remaining funds will be provided by the association.

Mrs. DeRuntz said public and private transit and para-transit operators and all other interested parties are invited to attend the Jan. 31 meeting.

The grant application also may be viewed in advance by calling 931-2393, between 7:30 a.m. and 9:30 a.m., for an appointment.

Porchlight Campaign Jan. 30

The Mothers' March to aid the March of Dimes campaign to fight birth defects will take place on Sunday, Jan. 30, Mrs. Wilma Herring, general chairman of the Granite City area drive, announced today.

Mrs. Herring noted, however, the Mothers' March period to collect donations from schools, business firms and individuals will extend through Feb. 5.

On Sunday, Jan. 30, volunteers will canvass homes in their own neighborhoods, soliciting donations from individual residences.

Mrs. Kathy Lane, Mothers' March chairman, said more volunteers are needed to assist in visiting homes in their immediate neighborhoods.

She urged interested persons to call her at 931-2012 "and offer their services for a short period of time on Jan. 30 to help this very worthwhile cause."

"Last year, we did much better than expected, collecting more donations than in previous years," Mrs. Lane said.

"We realize the weather has been very bad for door-to-door visiting, but we're hoping it will change for the better before the Porchlight March," Mrs. Lane commented.

"This is why we need additional volunteer marchers this year, so no one has to go outside their own immediate area," she added.

Mrs. Lane and her husband, Tommie, also a March of Dimes leader, are owners of George Lindsey's Family Steak House, 3310 Nameoki Road.

She is a school teacher and he operates the steak house and serves as an officer of the Granite City Restaurant Owners Association.

Both are active members of Calvary Baptist Church and have a variety of outside interests, including renovating antique cars, gardening and golf. They reside at 47 Fairways Estates, Arlington Heights.

This is the second year Mr. and Mrs. Lane have been March of Dimes drive leaders.

Mrs. Herring's husband, Joyce, is serving as her chairman. They spearheaded the Granite City campaign last year and Mrs. Herring was general chairman in 1975.

The Herrings are active in community and civic affairs in programs at Calvary Baptist Church. They own and operate Herring Boutiques — 27, located at 2700 Madison Ave.

The drive co-chairmen are members of the Granite City Rotary Club and Rotary Association and the Chamber of Commerce of the Tri-Cities.

Herring is past president of the Madison County Parent Association and was chosen to represent Region 8 of the Florida Transworld Delivery as "Member of the Year."

He frequently provides demonstrations in his art as a florist to area civic clubs, church organizations and other groups.

Mrs. Herring teaches a Sunday school class and both husband and wife sing in the church choir.

A keen sense of civic awareness and a belief in "becoming involved" are not the only reasons the Herrings continue to participate each year in the March of Dimes' campaigns.

The couple has a deep personal reason for helping. They have a 4½-year-old grandson, Robby, who was born with brain damage.

Mrs. Herring said funds contributed to the March of Dimes are used to fight birth defects through research, seeking cause and prevention, improved diagnosis and treatment; care — supporting a network of birth defects centers in hospitals throughout the country; professional information, education and training to increase the task force of medical personnel qualified to meet the problem and to inform medical workers of advances in the field.

Chapter services — centers of community information and action, mobilizing and augmenting resources, carrying out health education and professional and public information projects and helping patients and their families; and public information to spread awareness of the birth defects problem and what can be done, and to rally support for the fight against it.

At least 250,000 babies are born in the U.S. each year with significant defects, Mrs. Herring said. The figure represents 700 a day or one every two minutes, she pointed out.

One out of every 14 babies born has some form of birth defect. Birth defects are the nation's greatest destroyer of life after heart disease.

Birth defects claim 500,000 lives each year — 60,000 children and adults, plus an estimated 500,000 babies who died before birth as a result of defects.

By conservative estimates have one or more birth defects which affect their daily lives. About 1,775,000 of them are preschool children. More children are hospitalized for birth defects than for all infectious diseases combined.

The National Foundation of March of Dimes has established a network of Birth Defects Centers in hospitals throughout the country. They emphasize early diagnosis and evaluation and provide comprehensive care, Mrs. Herring explained.

Many conduct special research to understand complex defects better and to develop improved treatment methods. They also provide continuing education for students, physicians and other medical team members.

The centers are the hub of a new national effort to make early diagnosis, prompt and total care and rehabilitation available to every birth defects patient who needs it, Mrs. Herring stated.

Volunteers wishing to help in the Jan. 30 Porchlight March are invited to contact Mrs. Herring at 877-5614, or Mrs. Lane at 931-2012.

Mrs. Carl Harrison, Mrs. William Seibold, Mrs. Donald Crider, Mrs. William Ripka, Mrs. Bill Landis, Mrs. Clyde Lee, Sherry Petrillo, Elva Knight, Brenda Merrick.

Theft charge filed after investigation

Thomas A. Bovinett, 24, of 2100 Dewey Ave., has been charged with theft for allegedly purchasing a stolen auto which he had sufficient reason to believe was stolen.

The charges followed an investigation into a car found abandoned and obstructing traffic Friday afternoon in the eastbound curb lane at 20th and Nash streets.

Police had the car towed and checked the license plates, which were issued to Bovinett, when Bovinett and another man went to Dempsey Adams towing yard, where the car was being stored, officials there alleged he was attempting to claim the car without presenting proper proof of ownership.

Police were called and asked for a title and Bovinett said he recently purchased the car from a Belleville man for $100 and did not have a title. Officers said they checked the car's registration number through the state's computer and alleged the car had been stolen Aug. 11 from John Welch Jr., East St. Louis.

Bovinett and the man with him then were taken into custody for questioning. Bovinett later was charged with theft and the other man was released without charges being filed.

Bovinett appeared in court in Granite City before Associate Judge Merlin Hiscott, who released him on a $2,500 recognizance bond.

Kevin Lewis, 20, of 2121 Cheshire Court, has been sentenced to serve one to three years in prison after pleading guilty to delivery of heroin to undercover agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) of Southwestern Illinois. Lewis was one of about a dozen persons arrested during a coordinated series of drug arrests by police officers of five agencies Oct. 13. His sentence was pronounced by Circuit Judge William Beatty in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville. 'Peter Pan' rehearsals Rehearsals for "Peter Pan," the annual children's show by The Masquers, began last week. The original classic fantasy play, by James M. Barrie, first opened in London in April 1904, and has been revived each year during the Christmas season. Director Betty Darft of Belleville has selected Joanne Joria (Edwardville) to play Peter Pan, and Beth Sobolewski (Granite City) for the role of Wendy.

Captain Hook will be portrayed by Jim Fensterman (Granite City).

The production also features Jack French, Neil French, Philip French, Sally Sobolewski, Shirley Sobolewski, Ed Hesselent, Ann Padgett, Elaine Padgett and Suzanne Norris, all of Granite City.

"Peter Pan" will be presented at the Granite City High School South auditorium Saturday, March 5, and Sunday, March 13 and 20, in Collinsville at The Miners Theater.

All performances are matinees and the admission price is 50 cents for everyone. For special group discounts, Quad-Cityans may contact Mark Stephens (799-0341) or Cheryl Pikoritis (344-6754).

Dunaway promoted by Smith

Donald L. Dunaway, 39, has been elected president of A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, it was announced by L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer of A. O. Smith Corporation.

Harvestore Products is the nation's leading manufacturer of oxygen-limiting livestock feed storage and processing systems. The company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Milwaukee-based A. O. Smith, has its headquarters in Arlington Heights (near Chicago) and operates plants in DeKalb and Eureka, Ill., and Elkhorn, Wis.

Smith said John H. Brinker, president of Harvestore Products since 1972, has been elected chairman of the subsidiary's board of directors. Brinker, 54, is a former Morgan, 65, a 41-year veteran of A. O. Smith and a former Harvestore Products president is retiring at the end of this month.

Dunaway, who earlier this week was elected a vice president of A. O. Smith by the parent company's board of directors, will be chief operating officer of Harvestore Products.

Brinker will be its principal spokesman with farm groups and other organizations, including government, and will devote more time to strengthening the marketing of Harvestore structures and other products for non-agricultural uses, developing marketing opportunities for new products, and serving as the subsidiary's key liaison with Harvestore Ltd., an English affiliate which manufactures and distributes Harvestore systems outside North America.

Dunaway as president will have operating responsibility for the entire Harvestore Products organization, including manufacturing, engineering, marketing and administrative functions.

He will report directly to John R. Parker, president of A. O. Smith.

Most recently, Dunaway has been vice president and assistant general manager of Harvestore Products, a position he was appointed to early last year. Prior to that, he was president and treasurer of AgriStar Credit Corp., an A. O. Smith subsidiary which handles financing for Harvestore systems and other agricultural equipment.

Dunaway joined A. O. Smith in 1963 as a staff assistant in the corporate credit department. He became credit manager of A. O. Smith in 1966, manager of banking and credit in 1966 and assistant treasurer of the corporation in 1967, the same year he was named president of AgriStar.

Child care tax credit

Taxpayers who work or attend school and pay someone to care for their children or to care for disabled dependents can take advantage of a new child care credit on their 1976 federal income tax return, the Internal Revenue Service points out.

Under the new law, eligible taxpayers can claim a credit of 20 percent of their child care expenses, up to a maximum credit of $400 for one child and $800 for two or more.

The IRS pointed out that the credit is subtracted directly from the tax liability.

The credit can be taken by couples even if one or both spouses works only part-time. But, in these situations, the eligible expenses are limited to the amount of earnings of the spouse making the smaller amount, or in the case of a single person, to his or her earnings.

Separated, divorced or widowed parents with custody of children are also eligible, according to the IRS.

The credit also is available to married couples where one spouse works full-time and the other is a full-time student.

Other features of the liberalized child care law are that relatives who are not dependents can now be paid for child care as long as Social Security taxes are withheld from their pay; there is no longer a distinction between child care performed inside and outside the home, and persons who use the standard deduction can also claim their child care expenses but must file a Form 1040.

Formerly, child care was treated as a deduction rather than a credit, there was an income limitation, full-time employment was required, and relatives could not be paid for child care, the IRS said.

Additional information on the child care credit can be found in the tax instructions that came with the tax package.

Taxpayers can also use the order blank in the package to obtain a free copy of IRS Publication 503, "Child Care Publication 503," and Disabled Dependent Care."

'Not for Burning' on Jan. 27 to Jan. 30

The department of theater and dance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will present the second student production of the 1976-77 season this month.

William Vilhauer, chairman of the department, said the play, Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not for Burning," will be presented Jan. 27, 28 and 29 at 8:15 p.m. and Jan. 30 at 2:30 p.m. in the Communications Building theater.

The comedy is centered around a world-weary young soldier and a girl who may be burned at the stake on a charge of witchcraft. "It is a show which will get its audience ready for spring, for life and for love," Vilhauer says.

Headed the cast are Peter Beiger as Thomas Mendig, the ex-soldier, and Connie Marie Brazelton as Jennet Jourdemayne, the girl charged with witchcraft.

William Oxenfeldt plays the role of Richard, Susan Rice the part of Alison Elliot, Denise Smith the role of Nicholas Devise, and Rich Miller the role of Humphrey Devise.

Also in the cast are Joan Poreva as Margaret Devise, Dave Houghton as Hebble Tyson, Devin Doolen as a chaplain, Kenneth G. Bryant as Edward Tappercorn, and Ted Bennett III as Matthew Skips. Designed by Kenneth Bryant, the set is intended to transport the audience back into the 12th Century. Costumes for the comedy have been designed by Linda Wigley. Bryant and Miss Wigley are graduate students at the university, majoring in theater.

Ticket information may be obtained by telephoning 692-2520. For dinner reservations at the University Club Restaurant before a performance, Quad-Cityans may contact the University Club between 4 and 7 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Vocational training has aided 800,000 disabled veterans

More than 800,000 disabled veterans have received educational benefits under the Veterans Administration's vocational rehabilitation program, the agency reported this week.

Beginning with the enrollment of 11 persons in July 1945, the number of disabled veterans entering this program totaled 803,000 by the end of November.

This includes 621,000 World War II veterans and 77,000 veterans of the Korean war.

Almost $2.3 billion has been expended on vocational rehabilitation training during the program's 32-year history.

"Vocational rehabilitation seeks to help the service-disabled veteran select, prepare for and secure work that meets his personal goals, interests, abilities and physical capacities," a VA spokesman explained.

While training programs are individually developed, college-level courses are most popular with today's vocational rehabilitation trainees.

About 72 per cent of the disabled veterans are enrolled in college, almost double the rate of Vietnam-era veterans enrolled in GI Bill training.

Only 25 per cent of the World War II trainees used vocational rehabilitation eligibility to attend college; 30 per cent chose on-the-job training.

Another 25 per cent entered vocational or other noncollege training, and 11 per cent chose farm training.

Benefits include educational and vocational counseling, tutorial assistance, medical treatment, prosthetic aids and job-placement assistance.

Basically, service-disabled veterans, with other than dishonorable discharges have nine years from date of separation to complete vocational rehabilitation training.

Seriously disabled and blinded veterans may be granted longer periods of training.

Training expenses, including tuition, books and supplies, and a monthly subsistence allowance are paid by the VA.

A single veteran enrolled full time in vocational rehabilitation training receives $226 monthly. If he has one dependent, the subsistence allowance is $250; two dependents, $329, and $344 for each additional dependent.

John 3:30 "...He must increase, but I must decrease."

John the Baptist preached one of the greatest sermons I have ever heard in these seven words. From the first moment of personal commitment to Christ, we must die and Christ must live in us.

The greatest experiences in one's life revolve around the increase of self and the decrease of Christ within us. To be as Christ was, to ever strive toward that goal, is the ultimate aim of every believer.

We are instructed through God's word to go on in perfection. Perhaps we could one day declare as Apostle Paul, "...I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me."

Will Christ increase in you? Today.

Execution a response to big crime rise in past decade

The execution of a convicted murderer in Utah on Monday was the first in the United States since 1967—nearly a decade. Will it herald the next decade?

The subject of capital punishment obviously is too important to be settled by whims or fast-changing shadings of public opinion. One report is that 70 per cent of Americans currently favor the death penalty for the most vicious types of crimes.

National church leaders' response to the Jan. 17 firing squad action calls concern over "institutionalized disregard" of the worth of human life and a trend toward "brutalization of our whole society."

Yet, there has been a big increase in murders and other brutal crimes in the past ten years, a pattern that in its cruel way decreases the value society places on human life. Quad-Cityans have noted the tragic change not only elsewhere but in their home community.

The question of whether capital punishment serves as a deterrent to major crimes is the area in which debates over its merits usually bog down. Nobody can provide absolute proof for or against it, and certainly many killings are committed in a fit of anger that might ignore any kind of deterrent.

Mishandling of court procedures has freed many murderers to kill again. And numerous studies have established that the power to reduce sentences long after verdicts would be able to reconstruct the true horror of the original criminal act. Resulting lack of confidence that a wrongdoer can be forever kept away from lawbreaking is the basis for many persons' contention that the only sure way to prevent repeat slaughters is to deprive the killer of his life.

Soul searching and discussion will continue, and the ultimate pattern of criminal punishment cannot be predicted at this time.

If other death sentences are carried out, strong efforts should be made, as in Utah, to avoid turning the process into the "grisly circus" that so many fear will happen.

The focus must not be solely on the killer but on the act that occurred—and its victims.

Unless communities, states and the nation devise more effective ways of defending those who observe the law, the focus must be on making sure they survive whatever encounters or disputes may arise. This situation obviously would not strengthen the value of human life but instead would further brutalize our civilization.

State government structure prevents efficient services

Except from the report of the Illinois Task Force on Governmental Reorganization—Currently, the management of Illinois government is a complicated and difficult task for a chief executive.

A major reason for this is that the organization of Illinois government does not conform to organizational principles. In the present state governmental structure, the number of appointments the governor must make to boards, commissions and agencies responsible to him is over 2,000.

Responsibilities of boards, commissions and agencies overlap, and this diffusion unnecessarily increases the number of people under the direction of the governor. Not only are many of these people directly reporting to the governor, but in theory, but in practice the Governor is responsible if they do not perform well.

Sixty-five major agencies and more than 200 minor agencies, boards and commissions report to the governor or include gubernatorial appointees.

(1) Accountability is difficult to realize, since authority is diffused throughout a myriad of organizational units, some with many hands.

(2) Efficiency is difficult to achieve because, among other things, specialized agencies have developed in Illinois to deal with problems which could more efficiently be resolved in larger agencies with a broad-based service mandate.

The policy problems of delinquent youth, for example, are addressed by the Departments of Children and Family Services, Corrections, Mental Health, the Delinquency Prevention Commission, and the Parole and Pardon Board.

The resulting inefficiency is measured not only by duplication of hours put in by policy-makers in separate agencies—and by the frustration of citizens trying to find the right place for their particular problem—but also by the existence of conflicting policy directives issued throughout the government which lead to confusion and wasted time.

(3) Equity tends to be lost in both the promulgation of rules and in the delivery of services when the organizational structure of government is as complex as that of Illinois.

For example, rules governing regulation of currency exchanges are established in one agency, while those for savings and loans institutions or banks are established in others, thus creating potential inequities among life savers and for users of the industry's services.

(4) Accessibility for citizens is thwarted because of the size and complexity of the bureaucracy. Not only do citizens have difficulty getting services, but responsibilities are diffused throughout government.

The existence of a legislative agency that it is difficult for those providing services to keep track of and to meet citizens' needs.

If a citizen does not exactly meet the eligibility criteria of a specific agency, he is referred to another agency which might or might not be able to provide service. This process rewards the relatively persistent and strong, but short-changes the weak and discouraged.

(5) Effectiveness is elusive because responsibilities are scattered and no one is held accountable for results developed in the absence of a strong planning and policymaking body.

(6) The separation-of-powers principle is also violated by the organization of Illinois government. The existence of a legislative commission which must approve an agency director's use of bond money, for example, puts the legislative branch squarely in the process of execution or administration.

Sewers a bargain and a blessing

To the Editor:

Here are a few comments I would like to make concerning your Madison County Sewer Project in Area 1 of Chouteau and Nameoki Townships.

Most know, the township supervisors along with the Honorable William Schooley and Shepard Morgan and Schwaab Engineers were assigned the task of planning and financing this project in 1969.

It was believed at that time we could obtain a loan from the State of Missouri for 80 per cent of the project cost, and the other 20 per cent to be raised by tap-on fees and a loan from the Farm Home Loan Administration.

have assigned to me, I feel well qualified to try to explain the facts relating to our sewer program.

As most know, the township supervisors along with the Honorable William Schooley and Shepard Morgan and Schwaab Engineers were assigned the task of planning and financing this project in 1969.

It was believed at that time we could obtain a loan from the State of Missouri for 80 per cent of the project cost, and the other 20 per cent to be raised by tap-on fees and a loan from the Farm Home Loan Administration.

The resulting inefficiency is measured not only by duplication of hours put in by stant filing of forms and meetings with governmental agencies. We were convinced that it was going to take years to get funded through the federal government.

However, we were informed by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency that they had a program to help finance this project and that they would fund our project up to 75 per cent of the project cost.

At that time, we were informed by the Farm Home Loan Administration that they would fund our project up to 75 per cent of the project cost.

We had to look to other sources for our 25 per cent, which at this time amounted to approximately $5,000.00. Also during this period, Mr. Schooley advised us that he could not continue our attorney and we obtained the services of Attorney Horace Calvo.

With the help of Attorney Calvo we informed several bond financing companies and hired the firm of Wauterlik & Brown of Chicago as financial advisors to help us in the process of financing this project.

Attorney Calvo was elected as a judge of elections and resigned from our program. We then obtained the services of Attorney Harry Hartman, who is our legal advisor at this time.

After much studying of our project and many meetings with these people, they advised us that we would be necessary without selling bonds to get $1,600 from each household in the district to finance our project.

They also informed us that due to the nature of our project, we would be required to collect sewer bills other than legal action against property owners, that revenue bonds could not be sold.

We were informed that there was only one method of financing our project. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency passed in 1973, which allowed general obligation bonds to be sold for projects such as ours, and this would be at least $1,500.00 less cost than any other method, if any other was found possible.

The Sewer Committee gave this method a lot of discussion and consideration.

We knew that this would meet with opposition from some people—people who felt that because they were paying more than others they were being treated unfairly.

If we are going to have a sewer system, we must proceed with this program without delay, because the EPA has already given us the go-ahead to raise our funds. We can only pray that they will continue to do so.

They have also told us that $12,350.00 is the maximum amount of our grant. If we are not in a position to award the grant, we must proceed with this program without delay, because the EPA has already given us the go-ahead to raise our funds. We can only pray that they will continue to do so.

sewer systems as we have in normal or wet years.

But a good many homes were having problems even this year. A large number always pump their wash water out on top of the ground, because their system will not take care of it.

These problems will multiply again as soon as we have a dry year or wet year.

Here are some of the comments and questions put to me since the sewer program was started:

(1) When are we going to get sewers? I would give most anything to have them now.

(2) We can't even have friends come to our houses because of our bathroom problems.

(3) My septic tank is running over because I can't afford to have it pumped.

(4) Will you please come over and tell my neighbor to stop running their waste over my property?

(5) We have to have all the kids in one tub of water because the tub won't hardly drain.

These are only a few. Most every business place in our area will have to spend large sums of money to upgrade their septic systems within the next two years if we are not going to have sewers.

Friends, what would it be worth to you and your family for buildings and businesses to upgrade their septic systems within the next two years if we are not going to have sewers?

available. I have checked the assessment list of the sewer district, and in all Chouteau Township subdivisions there are only 50 homes that are assessed at $10,000 or more.

If everything goes as we have been told by our advisors, these 50 home owners are the only ones who would have to pay as much as would be needed to be paid by every one if revenue bonds could be sold for a 15-year period.

Please check your tax bill and multiply your assessed value by $1.06 per $100 assessment and you will be astonished how cheaply many people will be able to get the sewerage.

Remember, the time is coming when we will be forced to do something different with our sewage than what we are now doing.

I do not believe Granite City would have authorized the sale of revenue bonds to finance their secondary treatment plant if the federal government had not demanded that they do so.

If you would like to talk to me about this, drop me a card with your name, address and phone number and I will be glad to come and see you.

Bus-car hazard at school exit lane

To the Editor:

This is in regard to a letter the school transportation office received from a parent, stating that bus drivers were discourteous to North High School students and that we didn't look out for the children's safety when leaving the parking lot.

If this parent sat there one day and observed all that she says the bus drivers did, evidently she didn't observe the students. And I know she couldn't have heard them.

The parents would never believe the language we have to put up with, the snobishness we are hit with from behind, and all the arguments we have in looking out for their safety by making them sit down.

Another safety precaution relates to the way everyone comes out of the parking lot onto Maryland Road. This is what the parent was speaking about.

If I were looking, she would see the "little darlings" coming out two abreast the wrong way in a one-way lane.

The school buses are coming out in the proper lanes with proper signs. The students who are going west in the eastbound lane when the bus is making a left turn. This is very dangerous.

After her dance training in the United States, Miss Cohen danced with Anna Sokolow's Lyric Theater in 1961. Since then, she has toured the United States and Canada extensively and has appeared on television frequently.

She is known internationally for versatility, sensitivity and energy as she performs a wide repertoire, Miss Hallemeier said.

Tickets may be obtained in advance or on the night of the performance at the University Ticket Office. For non-SIUE students, the price is $2.50; for SIUE students, $1. Ticket information is available at 692-2320.

Program will train 13,000 mechanics

A $13 million nationwide program to recruit and train 13,000 persons a year as apprentice automotive mechanics has been launched by the National Automotive Dealers Association (NADA) and the U.S. Department of Labor.

The contract was signed by Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery Jr. and NADA President John J. Pohanka.

"This is the first of several initiatives by the Labor Department to extend apprenticeship training into major industrial occupations where it is not now strongly represented," Secretary Usery said.

Also approved were national apprenticeship standards that the 21,000 dealers affiliated with the NADA will use in setting up local-level auto mechanic apprenticeship programs.

The standards cover the full range of skills involved in automotive maintenance and repair. They were prepared by NADA with the cooperation of the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training in the department's Employment and Training Administration.

Hagnauer, Wolf in Washington

Sam Wolf of Granite City, a member of the National Democratic Committee and secretary-treasurer of the Madison County Committee, and Nelson Hagnauer, Granite City Township supervisor and chairman of the Madison County Board, are in Washington today to attend ceremonies for the inauguration of President Jimmy Carter.

The two officials, who were to attend the inauguration today and the subsequent inaugural ball, both attended a reception last night for Vice-President Walter Mondale. Wolf, a former state representative of the 56th Legislative District, also was to attend today a reception in honor of Robert Strauss, retiring chairman of the National Committee.

Wolf also is scheduled to attend a meeting of the National Committee Friday morning when a successor to Strauss will be named.

The two local officials also will attend a reception at the White House for President Carter on Friday.

The auto mechanic apprenticeship lasts three years. It consists of on-the-job training at auto dealerships and classroom instruction in the National Automotive Dealers Association (NADA) and the U.S. Department of Labor.

Job training will be based on the new automotive apprenticeship standards and on certification tests administered by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (NIASE).

Classroom studies will be balanced between technical and nontechnical subjects, with emphasis on general management and communications skills. Participants recruited for the program will include minorities and women.

Graduates of the program will receive associate degrees from the participating colleges, certificates of completion of apprenticeship from the Department of Labor, and certification as general automotive mechanics by the NIASE.

NADA has employed a full-time apprenticeship coordinator, as well as a training consultant, to provide guidance and direction to NADA members throughout the country in the promotion and development of apprenticeship programs using the new national standards as guide.

For the first time, according to NADA, there will be a concerted effort by the major employer organization of the automotive repair industry to develop comprehensive apprenticeship training programs for NADA member dealers throughout the country. The intent is to develop skilled, well-trained mechanics to repair and maintain the nation's automobiles.

Pohanka said the program is also designed to attract new people into the automotive service business who have the potential to advance into middle management positions.

Pohanka, who helped establish the NIASE to test and certify auto mechanics and serve as its first board chairman, explained that the new work-study program evolved from NADA's experience with mechanics' certification. He said, "Certification has demonstrated mechanics' skills and recognized their excellence, but it has not helped attract new recruits to the business."

"Service business is the most complex and challenging part of dealership operations. We need more top-caliber, highly-trained people who not only can repair and service increasingly complicated cars and trucks, but who also can communicate with customers and assume greater shares of management responsibility. We think this new associate degree will be the best source for master mechanics and service managers of the future."

Patterned after an apprentice program sponsored by Fiat in several cities during the past two years, the NADA program is scheduled to start in January in Houston, Texas, in cooperation with San Jacinto Junior College; and in February in Westchester County, N.Y., with Westchester Community College; in Long Island, N.Y., with Farmingdale State College, and in Prince Georges County, Md., with Prince Georges Community College.

Dealer meetings are being held throughout the U.S. to add more communities to the program list as quickly as community and junior colleges can be coordinated.

The Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training sets standards for the nation's apprenticeship programs, registers them, approves state apprenticeship agencies to register local programs and issues certificates of completion to successful apprentices. BAT has an annual budget of $12 million.

In 1976, there were 37,000 apprentices in 40,000 registered programs across the nation. About 18 per cent were minority group members and almost half were veterans.

Virtually all apprentices who complete the training are continued in their jobs with journeyman status, earning an average of "well over $4 an hour."

Some 'hired' to model pay for undelivered photographs

Persons who believe they are potential models were warned this week by the Better Business Bureau Serving Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois to be wary of any modeling-bookings agency requiring a purchase or investment when they respond to an advertisement for employment.

James C. Schmitt, president of the BBB, said the vanity of some individuals may lead them to believe that they have the potential to be models. "This type of person may be easily persuaded to purchase or make an investment to secure employment," Schmitt said.

"When dealing with any company requiring a purchase or investment, the BBB suggests consumers critically evaluate it," he cited the case of California Associates, an advertising-bookings agency which opened an office in Clayton in June 1976.

The BBB said the owner had been affiliated with Fashion IV Ltd., a modeling agency in Houston, Tex., that went out of business leaving unhappy consumers behind. The BBB of Metropolitan Houston reported complaints alleging unfulfilled promises of work and non-delivery of photographs.

The BBB of Kansas City, Mo., said California Associates maintains an office there blamed for unfulfilled promises of work.

An agency not yet registered with the Missouri secretary of state's office to do business in the state has taken over the office space and telephone number of California Associates. Two BBB representatives last week investigated, one of them posing as a prospective model. They were interviewed by the man who had operated the California agency in Clayton.

The one who posed as a prospective model reported that he indicated he accepts five applicants a month and that "I would be one of them." He allegedly told her she would have to sign a six-month contract, providing that she would pay the agency 15 per cent of all monies earned by her on all assignments obtained for her by the agency.

She reported also that he told her that, to begin a modeling career, she would need to purchase a portfolio of pictures at a cost of $289.

She reported that he asked her if she had a boyfriend and indicated she would meet a lot of men "in this type of work." He also told her that she would need to speak to his hypnotist "mainly to relieve my nerves," the BBB representative asserted.

The BBB offers the following guidelines to help consumers when dealing with any agency offering placement services:

1. Contact potential employers to determine if there is a market and what skills are necessary to enter the agency.
2. Determine whether the agency has an established reputation with reputable retailers and advertising companies.
3. Check with the BBB for information.

GC crimes drop in December

Major crimes in Granite City declined during December by 30.4 per cent below those of the same month a year ago, while the number of cases cleared by arrests during the month increased nearly 20 per cent over those of December 1975, according to a report by Chief of Police Ronald Veizer.

Reporting no major crime cases in eight categories, Veizer said a total of 183 such crimes occurred in Granite City last month, down 81 from the 266 cases reported during the same month a year ago.

There were no criminal homicide cases during December, compared to two in December 1975, and no forcible rape cases last month, compared to one during December a year ago. The only increase during the month was in the number of assault cases, a total of 19, up from 14 a year ago.

In all other categories, the number of crimes decreased last month. These included 44 burglary cases, down from 73; 33 auto burglaries, down from 55; 70 larceny cases, down from 84; and 14 auto thefts, down from 20.

Of the total cases reported last month, police cleared 56 cases by arrests, compared to 47 cases out of 266 cleared in December 1975. Police also cleared 67 other cases by arrest last month, making a total of 123 cases solved. This compares with 73 other cases solved in the same month a year ago for a total of 120 cases cleared.

Cases solved last month included one robbery case, 11 assault cases, nine burglaries, three auto burglaries, 23 larceny cases and four auto thefts.

Veizer reported there were no fatal accidents in Granite City during December, leaving the total number of fatalities at two for the 1976 year. This compares to six traffic fatalities during 1975.

The number of accidents resulting in injuries totaled 45 in December, up from 29 in the same month of the previous year, with a total of 70 persons injured, compared to 41 the previous year.

The report said the December accidents brought to 623 the total number of persons injured in Granite City traffic accidents during the year.

Veizer said the police department made a total of 97 traffic arrests last month, down from 125, and 136 other arrests, down from 133, for a total of 229 arrests last month compared to 258 total arrests in December 1975. Forty-eight additional charges were filed last month, bringing the total charges to 273. This compares with a total of 297 charges filed in December a year ago.

For the 1976 year, the police department filed a total of 4,086 charges, compared with a total of 4,314 in 1975, the report showed.

In Memoriam 33
In Loving Memory of FORREST C. RODGERS
January 19, 1976
He did not see a last farewell,
Not even a goodbye.
He was gone before I knew it and only God knows why.
They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget.
But time so far has only proved how much I miss him yet.
God gave me strength to face it, and the courage to face the slow,
But what it meant to lose Him, no one will ever know.
My heart aches with sadness,
my eyes shed many tears,
God knows how much I miss Him.
And will throughout the years.

Study of farm trust plan urged

By LESTER BELL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau

The creation of a 100,000-acre farm trust proposed by a Chicago bank and Merrill Lynch should be investigated, Cong. Paul Findley, R-20th Dist., a senior Republican on the House Agriculture Committee, has declared.

Findley made public a letter to outgoing Agriculture Secretary John A. Knebel in which he urged such action. Findley also asked Chairman Thomas Foley, D-Wash., for a Congressional hearing by the Agricultural Committee.

Findley noted reports of a new investment trust plan being organized by Continental Illinois National Bank of Chicago and Merrill Lynch, the nation's largest brokerage firm. They propose to buy about 100,000 acres in Midwest, Southern and Western states and lease acreage to farmers. The bank would manage the and the emergence of large corporate absentee ownership, as opposed to family-owned corporations.

"If this develops, it could have real consequences on rural America," he said, commenting that independent farmers generally are dominant in local government and thus give small communities "an important conservative balance" against urban inroads.

There is a possible "positive side," Findley conceded.

He said the trust could provide "the enormous capital funds that agriculture demands" while giving ambitious young people a chance to lease farms.

Findley told Knebel that the USDA should examine specifically the trust's potential impacts on the value of farm lands, the farm family, the chance for young people to own and operate farms, the governing vitality of rural communities, and the farm price supports and related benefits.

PERCEIVING "ominous possibilities," Findley said the trust could "be the beginning of the end of family ownership"

Accidents decline over 3-year period

Statistics are a valuable tool for all agencies that serve the public, according to Captain Albert J. Bertagnoli, commander of District 11, Illinois State Police, at Maryville.

He said he found the following statistics of great interest:

In 1973 troopers in District 11 investigated 5,044 accidents compared to 4,735 in 1976. This is the third year that the accident rate has been lower than the 1973 figure.

The three years show a 6 per cent decrease in traffic accidents.

During the same period of time, arrests and recorded warnings issued by District 11 troopers showed a 54 per cent increase and a 133 per cent

'Quality of life' downtrend but improvement in air, timber resources

For the seventh consecutive year, the "quality of life" in the United States, measured by seven environmental yardsticks, continued a downward trend in 1976, the National Wildlife Federation reported this week.

The report is contained in the eighth annual "Environmental Quality Index" (EQI) survey published in the February issue of the federation's bimonthly magazine, National Wildlife. Conditions improved in two environmental areas — air quality (for the second consecutive year) and forest resources.

Five other indicators — on water quality, wildlife, living space, soil and minerals — slipped again despite "the uncommonly good feeling across the land" during the Bicentennial year, the conservation organization found. The EQI slipped to 347 — on a scale of 700 — or three points below the 1975 Index and 48 points below the first EQI in 1969.

The EQI, regarded as a useful indicator by many government agencies and conservation groups, is based in part on statistics and in part on informed subjective judgments by NWF experts, who consult with government, industrial and academic researchers.

All seven indices have declined since the first National Wildlife magazine-EQI survey reported that "America is in trouble. Apathy is our biggest problem."

Here are summaries of the latest EQI findings in each resource area:

AIR — Up a little. Air quality continues to improve steadily in some parts of the country.

But experts are just beginning to grasp the complexity of the overall air pollution problem.

Particulate matter in air is decreasing at a five per cent rate each year, 90 per cent of the nation's stationary sources of air pollution were either within emission limits or on schedules leading to compliance, and the number of people exposed to hazardous air was greatly reduced.

To confound the trend, only one auto maker — Volvo — met 1977 emission standards; the others said they need more time. Urban pollution is spreading to rural areas.

FORESTS — Up a little.

Demand for timber was down because building was in a recession.

Net timber growth on public and private lands continues to show a steady gain. However, trees from commercial forests are being consumed at 500,000 acres each year for urban sprawl, vacation homes, agriculture use and other purposes.

There is more debate on using public forests for recreation and wildlife, as well as for grazing and production of timber.

Economic pressure will continue to affect major policy decisions on public forest land, but there will be tighter governmental controls and less clearcutting (harvesting all trees in an area).

Further lawsuits will probably focus more on the protection of critical wildlife than on timbering practices.

WATER QUALITY — Down again. Industrial discharges are being curtailed, and some rivers aren't as polluted, but municipal efforts are faltering in parts of the country.

While 90 per cent of industrial polluters will meet the Clean Water Act goals for 1977, only half of the municipalities will reach them.

National Wildlife quotes a former U.S. Environmental Protection Agency official: "The agency is afraid to play political hardball with the mayors." EPA also lagged in awarding $7.3 billion for sewage treatment construction projects that could help eliminate sewage from waterways.

Polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB) contamination got worse in 1976; Congress passed a law to ban the possible cancer-causing substance by 1978. Public awareness of pesticide threats was raised by the Kepons menace. Sixty-five toxic wastes from industrial plants in 1976 were brought under EPA regulation — for the first time — in an effort to further cut back the direct charge of pollutants into surface waters.

Some experts believe that up to 90 per cent of all cancer cases are traceable to environmental causes.

WILDLIFE — Down a little. Wildlife still faces the problem of habitat loss.

There are 170 U.S. animals now officially classified as endangered, and 1,700 plants are in the process of being added to the government's list.

Pesticide load reductions contributed in some areas to increased breeding populations of bald eagles, pelicans and ospreys.

habitat lost to channelization, dams and other U.S. construction projects.

The federal government for many years has destroyed more habitat than it has replaced.

LIVING SPACE — Down. Important stretches of rural America, the NWF says, continues to be lost to haphazard development. It urges strong governmental land use planning controls.

More than one million acres of rural land were consumed in 1976 by development, with urban expansion spreading over more than 750,000 acres to accommodate low-density subdivisions and other projects.

Americans each year generate approximately 150 million tons of household garbage, which is dumped mainly in land-consuming landfills, and the rate is increasing.

Road building projects have been consuming more than 100,000 acres of rural land each year, but, because of a 1976 Congressional act, states can for the first time use federal funds to repair existing roadways, instead of having to use the money on new roadways.

The nation's birthrate was at its lowest; at the same time the population was up by 2.5 million, and those people will eventually demand more living space.

SOIL — Down. Wind and water each year erode away 3.5 to 4 billion tons of topsoil.

Only half of the nation's cropland is adequately treated to prevent erosion.

The U.S. has 111 million acres that could be converted to food production, and only 24 million acres are prime farmland in reserve; 367 million acres are now being farmed.

MINERALS — Down. The U.S. for the first time in 1976 imported more petroleum during one week than it produced.

Some experts fear that gasoline lines like those of 1973 could come back any day.

Researchers estimate that U.S. citizens waste half of the energy they use.

Petroleum imports are expected to increase from 41 per cent currently to 60 per cent by 1980.

Congress again failed to pass strip mining legislation.

While vast new coal reserves were opened up in the West, the Department of the Interior laid down tougher mining standards; environmentalists contend the standards are still not adequate.

Class on choking and resuscitation

"Save a life" classes will be offered the last Thursday of every month at St. Elizabeth Hospital, beginning Jan. 27. Each session will last from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Persons will be taught the cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) procedure for heart attack and the Heimlich maneuver for choking. Classes are free and open to the public. To enroll, persons may call 876-2020, extension 411.

"Fifty per cent of deaths from heart attack could be prevented with CPR," according to Trauma Coordinator, Steve Missey, the "save a life" instructor. The first few minutes before ambulance arrival are the most crucial to a heart attack victim's chances of survival, he said.

PONTOON BREAK-IN

An inventory is to be conducted to determine if anything was taken during a break-in at the home of Kevin Gahung, 1004 West Pontoon Road, between 8 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. Monday. Entry was gained by opening the overhead garage door. The lock had been broken in a previous burglary. The door to the family room from the garage then was forced open and all rooms in the house were ransacked.

Armstrong CHANDELIER® Ceilings luxurious textured ceilings with beauty that flows from wall to wall

The grid is hidden within the tile itself! So you get just one beautiful pattern from wall to wall. No exposed grid, no bevels. You can use the metal furring channel to install any Chandelier Ceiling direct to your old ceiling . . . to any height desired! And the grid won't show! LET US SHOW YOU HOW EASY IT IS!

Unique Integrid metal furring method eliminates 95% of the nailing necessary with furring strips...and there's no stapling or gluing!

Metal furring channel is nailed flush to old ceiling.

Tile slides into next tile and cross tee.

Sure, putting up a ceiling used to be hard work. You had to put up wood furring strips by pounding 260 nails up over your head for a 12' x 12' room. Then you had to put in 576 staples to hold the tile. With Armstrong's new Integrid furring channel, you use only 12 nails in the same size room—a lot faster and easier! You get a beautiful ceiling that flows from wall to wall without unsightly bevels between tiles. No grid shows! All at a price you can afford!

It's one of the easiest and most noticeable home improvements you can make.

NEW! Trendsetter® Ceilings with the warmth and richness of natural textures!

These natural reproductions—recalling the rustic plank ceilings of long ago or contemporary combinations of wood and rough-troweled plaster—can add a warm, cozy atmosphere to any room of your home! Each pattern flows smoothly from wall to wall, because the beveled edges are part of the ceiling designs, not an interruption. Trendsetter Ceilings are washable and fire-retardant. Some are acoustical. And Trendsetter can be installed with Armstrong's unique Integrid® metal furring system that eliminates 95% of the nailing you'd have to do with furring strips.
